LEAGUE MAY BLOCK ITALIAN ARMS SHIPMENTS

BANNED CARGOES CAN BE SEIZED

PLAN TO PREVENT WAR IN AFRICA

SUEZ CANAL CANNOT BE CLOSED TO ANYONE

London, July 5.

It is understood that the legal aspect of the question of the closing of the Suez Canal as a measure of pressure against Italy has been examined by international jurists at Geneva. It was held that the statutes of the Suez Canal Company would not allow the canal to be closed to any belligerent nation; but under Article XX of the League of Nations Covenant members of the League severally agreed that all obligations inconsistent with the terms of the Covenant were automatically abrogated.

It was therefore recognised that if the League Council declared an embargo upon arms to Somaliland and Eritrea it would be within the competence of that body to order the examination of all ships passing through the canal.

Further, it would be possible to seize all cargo coming within the scope of the embargo.

M. Joseph Avenol, Secretary-General of the League of Nations, will be visiting London next week, possibly to discuss the question with the British authorities. The question whether the Council would vote on such an embargo is very problematical.—Reuter.

ITALY TO BUILD

Rome, July 5.

Italy is going to build a stronger navy.

Following a secret meeting of Italy's Admirals, presided over by Signor Mussolini, the Prime Minister, it has been officially announced that measures have been decided upon to increase the tonnage and fighting strength of the Italian Navy.

No further details of the scheme are yet available and official sources keep strict silence in this regard, but it is understood that the decision was taken as a result of the changes taking place in European naval equilibrium, especially because of the forthcoming increase in Germany's naval strength.

PENALTIES POSSIBLE

London, July 5.

Officials are reluctant to discuss courses of action which may be taken to prevent Italy making war upon Abyssinia, but there is increasing talk of attempting to impose economic penalties upon Italy.

In reliable sources it is learned that the British Government has decided that it cannot act alone, however, nor execute measures exceeding persuasion. Provided the League of Nations decide to act collectively, the United States and Japan will probably be asked to support them.—United Press.

Italy, too, desires to attend the coming naval conference and to be as strong as possible by the time that meeting is called, presumably so that she will have a bargaining lever.—Reuter Special.

AMERICA'S REPLY

Washington, July 5.

The United States has side-stepped any responsibility in the Italo-Abyssinian dispute.

Mr. Cordell Hull, the Secretary of State, replied to the Abyssinian note today, saying he trusted that both Abyssinia and Italy would abide by their treaty obligations. The United States declined to enter actively into the controversy; he said.

Mr. Hull observed that the Emperor of Abyssinia, instead of specifically invoking the Kellogg Pact, said he felt it his duty "to ask America to examine the means of securing its observance."

Mr. Hull's reply likewise side-stepped formal invocation of the Pact.

Mr. Hull, also, noted that the controversy was now in the course

DENIES SECRET TREATY

FRENCH FAITH IN DIPLOMACY

AVOIDING OFFENCE

Paris, July 5.

Following the suggestion in the British press that a secret treaty existed between France and Italy which would allow Rome to operate unhindered by Paris in North-east Africa, in denial has been issued in Paris.

No treaty exists between France and Italy regarding Abyssinia, it is stated.

Although during Franco-British diplomatic conversations France has offered no concrete proposal for the settlement of the Italo-Abyssinian dispute, official quarters in Paris are still sanguine that a formula will be found which will be acceptable to Signor Mussolini and will avert war.

The guiding inspiration of the French policy is the anxiety not to offend Signor Mussolini which, the French believe, would drive it to the very action they all wished to avoid.

Therefore the French Government favours a solution of the Italo-Abyssinian quarrel through diplomatic channels and not before the bar of the League of Nations. It is understood that the French and British Governments are treating the Abyssinian problem as a separate entity and there is no bargaining or offer of barter of support for Abyssinia in turn for backing in European problems.—Reuter.

of arbitration under the League of Nations supervision.—United Press.

U. S. REJECTS APPEAL

Washington, July 5.

The United States has, in effect, rejected the plea by the Emperor of Ethiopia that America should invoke the Kellogg Pact in connection with the dispute with Italy.

A note promptly replying to the appeal says the United States is gratified that the League of Nations is giving attention to the controversy and America is loth to believe that Italy or Ethiopia will seek a settlement except by pacific means or permit a situation to arise inconsistent with the commitments of the Pact.

The reply, however, does not mention possible action by the United States.—Reuter.

Opposition To Hapsburg Restoration

LITTLE ENTENTE ALARMED

WORKING FOR FRIENDSHIP

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1934. Received, July 5, 8 a.m.)

Paris, July 5.
Unrelaxed opposition of the Little Entente to a Hapsburg restoration in Austria was voiced by the Jugo-Slavian Minister at Paris, M. Spulakovich, in the course of conversations with M. Laval, the Prime Minister of France.

It is understood that the French Government takes the stand that the sympathetic treatment of Archduke Otto, head of the House of Hapsburg and heir to the throne of Austria, is Austria's private affair and does not necessitate diplomatic action.

Nevertheless, the measure restoring the Hapsburgs to their nationality and fortune is considered untimely because it threatens to create an atmosphere in Central Europe not calculated to facilitate the conclusion of the projected Danubian Pact.—Reuter Special.

BRITISH VIEW

London, July 5.

The British reply to the query from Berlin as to whether the Franco-Soviet Pact conflicted with the Treaty of Locarno was handed to the German Ambassador today.

It is understood that Britain, like France, believes the pact in no way conflicts with the arrangement made at Locarno.

It is felt in London, says Reuter's diplomatic correspondent, that the situation will now be eased sufficiently to allow Germany to take the initiative towards the organisation of the security of East Europe.—Reuter Special.

CONTROL OF WHEAT

CANADA'S ACTION EXPLAINED

Ottawa, July 5.

The Senate has passed the Canadian Wheat Board Bill, under which a Board will be established to control the sale of Canadian wheat.

Speaking in the House of Commons, Mr. R. B. Bennett, the Prime Minister, assured the House that the Board would not launch out on a dumping policy to liquidate the Canadian wheat surplus at "fire sale" prices. There would be no dumping on the world market, he said.

Wheat holdings of approximately two hundred million bushels are being taken over by the Board from Canadian co-operative wheat producers.—Reuter.

Army Machines Search For Four Fliers

Colon, July 5.

Army planes are at present searching the Panama jungle for a lost Army plane, which is long overdue here and is feared to have crashed.

Four men are aboard the machine. They are Lieutenants Winton, Graham, Gerge and McCahn.—United Press.

CHEERY BRITISH OUTLOOK

SIGNS OF GENERAL IMPROVEMENT

London, July 5.

The Finance Bill was read a third time in the House of Commons today and immediately after was introduced in the House of Lords.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer, Mr. Neville Chamberlain, in moving the third reading, said the Budget had brought very near to completion his task of removing the burdens imposed in the crisis of 1931 and restoring national credit.

After describing the widespread benefits conferred by the remissions of taxation and the full restoration of the salary cuts, Mr. Chamberlain referred to the signs of economic progress which entitled him to claim that "the outlook remains persistently and doggedly cheerful." Railway traffic, bank clearings and retail trade all showed a steady rise. Exports were up by £16,000,000 for the first five months compared with 1934, and imports of raw materials showed an encouraging increase.—British Wireless.

BANKS DOING WELL

Four out of the five great Banks generally known as the "Big Five" have issued their balance sheets in the last few days. The dividends declared are at the same rate as at the corresponding period last year. The statements show deposits have been steadily rising and the turnover has been larger, especially in recent weeks.

Figures of the London bankers' clearing house to date show an increase of £569,044,000, or 3.6 per cent., over the same period last year. Dividends of the chief discount houses are also at the same rate as last year.—British Wireless.

GREAT AIR FLEET

GIANT AIRCRAFT TO BE BUILT

Moscow, July 5.

The Soviet has decided to build sixteen aeroplanes of the same size as the ill-fated Maxim Gorky which, until it crashed with terrible loss of life following a collision in mid-air, was the largest aircraft in the world.

The Government has announced that a voluntary collection among the working population made to replace the lost airliner already totalled 68,000,000 roubles.—Reuter Special.

The Hongkong dollar opened unchanged at 2s. 2½d. this morning, but later declined to 2s. 2d. The business rate now is 2s. 2½d. sellers and 2s. 2½d. buyers. The tone of the market is uncertain.

In London, silver prices were unchanged yesterday. China bought and sold on a quiet steady market. In New York, silver was down ¾th yesterday.

Thrilling Contests At Henley

OXFORD'S HOPES ARE DASHED

DIAMOND SCULLS

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1934. Received, July 5, 5.10 a.m.)

London, July 5.
Sunny weather, with fairly strong cross-winds, marked the resumption of the Henley Regatta today.

The Grand Challenge Cup again produced close races. Pembroke College, Cambridge, beat Jesus College, Cambridge, by three-quarters of a length in 7 minutes, 13 seconds. Leander Club, the holders, rowing in perfect orthodox style, beat the Thames Rowing Club by three-quarters of a length in 7 minutes, 17 seconds.

The most thrilling race of the day was provided by Emmanuel College, who smashed Oxford's hope of entering any final by beating Christ Church by half a length in the semi-final of the Ladies' Plate. In the other heat, Trinity Hall, Cambridge, beat First Trinity, Cambridge.

In the Stewards' Cup, the premier four-oared event, the London Rowing Club beat Pembroke College, Cambridge. In the other semi-final, Zurich Rowing Club, cramming 42 strokes into the first minute, easily defeated the Thames Rowing Club.

There will be an all-foreign final in the Diamond Sculls for the second successive year, between Zavrola, Czechoslovakia, and Ruffi, Switzerland. In the semi-finals, Ruffi just beat Scudach, also of Switzerland, who hit the booms, while Zavrola beat Winstone, of Molesley.—Reuter Special.

INDIAN TOWN ABLAZE

TROOPS FINALLY GAIN CONTROL

(Special to "Telegraph")

Delhi, July 5.

According to a report from Nathlagall (North-West Frontier), the entire Indian quarters in the town of Abbottabad has been gutted by a fire which raged for seven hours, owing to the shortage of water and the absence of a fire-fighting service.

Troops tried to limit the blaze by blowing up buildings, but they were handicapped by insufficient supplies of dynamite. However, the fire was finally got under control.

At least a thousand houses, a Hindu temple and a Moslem mosque were destroyed. The population was panic-stricken, but there were no casualties. A camp has been opened for the homeless.—Reuter Special.

PERRY IS VICTOR AT WIMBLEDON

BUT ENGLAND FAILS IN DOUBLES

AMERICA AND AUSTRALIA IN KEEN CONTESTS

London, July 5.

England, in the person of F. J. Perry, has won the chief championship at Wimbledon. Perry repeated his achievement of last year, marching through all competition, and winning with a burst of brilliance against one of the most capable players ever to contest a Wimbledon final, Baron von Cramm, young German champion.

Perry won in straight sets, 6-2, 6-2, 6-4.

Interest now centres in the men's doubles final. The Americans, Allison and Van Ryn, former Wimbledon champions, have fought their way to the finish and will meet the great Australian pair, Crawford and Quist.

Allison and Van Ryn defeated the Englishmen, Hughes and Tuckey, in their semi-final engagement. They won after four strenuous sets, having lost the first. The match score was: 4-6, 6-4, 6-2, 6-2.

PROBING FRONTIER PROBLEMS

RUSSIA AND JAPAN IN AGREEMENT

INCIDENT IN JEHOL

Tokyo, July 5.

M. Yureneff, the Russian Ambassador, has informed Mr. K. Hirota, the Foreign Minister, that the Soviet accepts Japan's proposal for the organisation of a joint Soviet-Manchukuo-Japanese Frontier Commission in an endeavour to terminate the present irritation caused by frequent frontier incidents.

It is learned that the details of the organisation will soon be worked out.—Reuter.

JEHOL TROUBLE

Hsinking, July 5.

A party of a hundred Japanese troops is being rushed to the border region in Jehol, following a report that a detachment of General Sun Chih-yuan's army attacked and looted a Manchukuo frontier post.

It is stated that two guards were seriously injured during the attack.—Reuter.

MATSUDAIRA RETURNING

London, July 5.

Mr. Matsudaira, the Japanese Ambassador to London, who is returning to Japan via America, leaving by the Empress of Britain, stated in an interview with Reuter, that he was chiefly going on holiday, but also to prime himself on the latest situation in the Far East and to report on the situation in the West, in which connection he recently had a conference in Paris with all Japanese Ambassadors in Europe.

Mr. Matsudaira said he was not certain when he would return, but it would probably be just before Christmas.—Reuter.

LABOUR DISPUTES BILL

ROOSEVELT SIGNS MEASURE

Washington, July 5.

President Roosevelt has signed the Wagner Labour Disputes Bill.

It is emphasised that the National Relations Board will not be an independent quasi-judicial body, and will not act as mediator or conciliator in labour disputes.—Reuter.

In the semi-final of the mixed doubles, the Australian pair, Mr. and Mrs. Hoggan, advanced the expense of Von Cramm and Frau Sperling. They won in two sets, 6-4, 6-4.

Perry and Dorothy Round will meet Quist and Mlle. Jedzejowska, who to-day beat McGrath and Miss Hartigan, in the other semi-final.

In the semi-finals of the women's doubles Mlle. Mathieu and Frau Sperling beat Frau Sigart Meulenester and Miss Metaxa Howard and Miss Stammers and Miss James beat Mrs. Haylock and Mrs. Kirk.

MISS ROUND TO REST

Miss Dorothy Round has declined to play in Britain's Wightman Cup team. She declares she wants a rest from tennis.

England's hopes of victory in the Davis Cup are somewhat lessened by the defeat of Hughes and Tuckey. It was hoped that they would be able to hold their own against any American pair, but Allison and Van Ryn, title-holders in 1929-30 were more than a match for the Englishmen. Tuckey played with much pluck and fire and his smashing was fine, but Hughes' lobs gave opportunities to the Americans who quickly seized them, killing savagely and winning many points.

If, as seems likely, England meets America in the final of the Davis Cup competition, the whole burden will once again fall upon Fred Perry. The Americans are capable of beating Austin with any one of their singles aces, and their doubles team is a good deal stronger on present form than anything England can offer in which Perry is not a member. It would seem that Perry must again be depended on for two singles victories and to help England to meet the challenge in the decisive doubles match.—Reuter.

A British Wireless message, explaining Dorothy Round's withdrawal from the Wightman Cup team, states that she has been for some weeks suffering from a strained leg muscle.

TIENTSIN
MAKERSWAITING FOR STARS
TO RISE AGAININ WALLED ESTATES

Tientsin
The foreign concessions of Tientsin are havens of refuge for scores of retired warlords, bandit chiefs, government officials, revolutionary generals and other political refugees.

The Sino-Japanese imbroglio in North China brought several of such names up from obscurity by a brief flash across the newspaper page. Surrounded by armed bodyguards, their homes encircled with high brick walls and peep-holed iron gates, with electrified barbed wire as additional protection, they keep in close touch with the outside world. Some doubtless dream of the day when Nanking's star will wane and they can once more become a force in Chinese politics.

The fact that Nanking's power has been dimmed by the Chinese military leaders in Hopei province coupled with the flood of handbills in this region urging overthrow of the National Government has caused police to check over their lists again and discover if any agitators are being harboured—not that any will be turned over to outside authorities, but merely for information.

Some of the most impressive mansions in the foreign concessions are the dwellings of former warlords whose names are internationally famous and who now live in ease and luxury on spoils and loot obtained during their height of power.

Others equally famous, but perhaps less greedy in their hour of triumph, yet still at "outs" with Nanking, live here quietly and modestly, using the foreign concessions as Snug Harbour until the storm blows over.

FORMER WARLORD

General Sun Chuan-fang, former warlord of five provinces from Fukien to Shantung, including Hangchow, Shanghai and Soochow now resides in a beautiful mansion on Meadows Road in the British Concession, professing the most profound indifference to the outside world and interest only in his Buddhist studies. Only twice a week does he appear outside the walls of his estate and then he goes to the native city to lecture to a group of ardent Buddhist disciples.

In contrast to Gen. Sun's luxurious surroundings is the simple little house on Severn Road, British Concession, occupied by Ma Chan-shun, China's hero of the Manchurian battlefield. He barely escaped with his life, much less any loot from the people of Heilungkiang, where his exploits made him famous. His house is on a par with that of a middle-class shopkeeper or petty government official.

The Japanese Concession's most famous refugee was Mr. Henry Pu Yi, now Emperor of Manchukuo, who lived in a large but ramshackle house on the corner of Miyajima and Akashi Roads. Scores of ex-Chinese leaders who have betrayed China for Japan or gained Japanese favour for some act or scheme, are now living in the Japanese Concession.

Mr. Wang I-tang, one of the leaders of the notorious Anfu Club which was disgraced because it urged immediate acceptance of the Twenty-One Demands, lives in splendour in a barbed-wire protected house on Tamara Road.

General Shih Yu-san, with a price on his head, one-time Governor of Anhwei Province, who has fought for and against Nan-

USEFUL COATS

Made of Light Navy
Crepe and Organdie

SMART FINISH

"Useful Coats". "A good many women will feel regret that the long coat may be withdrawn for the present from the front rank of fashion." But a short coat, like the one sketched, which is part of a delightful two-piece ensemble, makes its own appeal. Dress and coat are made of light navy crepe, the deep collar and full cuffs of the former—of blue-checked white organdie—making a finish for the latter.

FASHION NOTES

DAY-TIME suits have often slitted skirts. The skirts themselves remain slim and straight, to be accented with short, snappy jackets, that are about the youngest, freshest looking things you can wear.

Many of the models are reminiscent of the clothes worn in 1915. This is done by fitting jackets, shortening and widening skirts, and also by military touches, standing collars, important buttons, patch-pockets, braiding, and frogs.

Unusual white accents for dark clothes are the rick-rack edging round neck, cuffs, and belt-lines. Sometimes even the hemline is edged with this white rick-rack. The shorter, fuller day-skirt bids fair to be accepted by many women, especially by younger ones. But, because the mode is extremely eclectic, you may continue to wear a classic tailor-made, if you like, and to keep your skirts slim, if you prefer that line.

Now that summer is upon us, with light dresses, the necessity of perfectly fitting underwear is doubly important. The first thing to consider is a corset. Wear one, no matter how thin you are, it will give you softer hips, a better bust, a neater waist, and when you have perfected your curves, take care to show them properly. So many women, especially the slender ones, and the young ones, suffer from the aftermath of the debutante slouch.

king, and for and against Japan at one time or another in his chequered career, lives in an unpretentious dwelling well protected with electrified barbed-wire on the corner of Akashi and Fushimi Roads, Japanese Concession.

There are many others in like status, seeking the protection offered by extraterritoriality in the foreign concessions, many awaiting their chance to emerge once again as a leading power, and making the foreign concessions a hotbed of politics and intrigue.

PLEA FOR EQUALITY OF SEXESSPHERES WHERE WIVES ARE NEEDEDCHAMPION OF WOMEN

Women who are still smarting under the remarks made by Dr. N. Tattersall, of Leeds, who told them bluntly that they were still the weaker sex, should comfort themselves with what Dr. Leonard P. Lockhart, of the Industrial Research Board, had to say at the annual congress of the Royal Institute of Public Health and the Institute of Hygiene at Harrogate.

He wants to see relegated to the rag such false conceptions as woman's supposed weakness and lack of administrative power, her supposed lack of mechanical ability, and her alleged instinct for cooking and textile work.

He told the delegates that the welfare of women would never be advanced until these ideas were dropped and full equality of the sexes was conceded.

"There are many people in this country," he said, "who still hold that the place of woman in society is one of breeding children and looking after men."

"We make far too much of sex differences and far too little of sex similarity. Women really need freedom, not to do as they like but to assume their full share in the responsibilities of the industrial and economic life."

Women, he said, would never reach full physical and mental efficiency until marriage ceased to carry economic penalties for them, which, though they were accepted unquestionably by the majority, certainly resulted in the sterilisation and waste of a vast amount of intellectual power.

A new society was coming into being which required the utmost from every citizen, and an exclusively man-run society was incompatible with welfare in the modern state.

"MOTHERS AND WORKERS"

Dr. Lockhart maintained that it was not beyond human capacity to find a means whereby women who wished to work could be both mothers and workers.

"If there are three spheres where married women are needed," he said, "I should say they are teaching, social administration, and the supervising of family labour and working conditions in industry."

Dr. Lockhart said that industry was heavily handicapped by a high sick rate absence, both among men and women. Much of this arose from physical causes in the home, not the least being the low level of domestic economy, including cooking.

"If married women work," he added, "it might be objected that this standard would become even lower. I don't think so. Better by far well-prepared food from a communal kitchen than meals ill-cooked in the domestic oven, or produced by a disillusioned wife from a tin."

WON'T READ OR THINK

CRITICISM OF POST- WAR YOUTH

NOVELISTS WHO CAN'T SPELL

London.

Criticism of modern youth's reluctance to think was made by the Rev. F. E. England, Convener of the Welfare of Youth Council of the Presbyterian Church of England, at the conference of the Association for Adult Religious Education at Haywards Heath.

He said that since the war there had been this curious disinclination on the part of young people to read or to think or to "get down to brass tacks" with regard to any intellectual or cultural pursuit. This disinclination was seen in a great many ways in all levels of life.

It was seen in the extraordinary want of response to a movement such as the University Extension Movement and the tutorial classes, where the organisers had to search for people to join the classes. The Board of Education was prepared to spend a thousand pounds more on the work, but people did not come because they did not want the classes.

In art there was the same extraordinary vogue for sheer undisciplined painting. Young people who went in for all types of art refused to do any of the spade work.

"ROMANTIC GUSH"

The same was true of novel-writing. "I know two or three girls," he said, "who have achieved real fame by writing novels, but they cannot spell, they know nothing about punctuation; and, in fact, they know nothing about anything outside the jargon of the cheap romantic gush they call fiction."

"The lack of discipline in education is much worse to-day than it was before the war, and I include University students. They do not take the same care as their pre-war predecessors. They cannot spell, they do not know how to write, and are not at all sure of the kind of things required to give them a grasp of a subject."

"The same thing applies to their thoughts about religion. They have the crudest possible ideas about the way God works, but if anything goes wrong they fly to ministers or priests and ask for help."

With regard to the question of instructing modern youth in religion, Dr. England said that the B.B.C. was wasting its chances on Sunday nights.

"Does the B.B.C. ever tell young people a fact they did not know before?" he asked. "The standard of religious teaching of the B.B.C. is depressingly low. When they give lectures they are academically high, but what is wanted is some grappling with the main issues of life, making them clear to people."

CONVERSION OF ST. PAUL

Referring to the Biblical incident in which St. Paul was described as being blinded with a great light on the Damascus road, Dr. England said it had been suggested as a possible explanation that a particularly strong shaft of sub-tropical sunlight caught St. Paul, and that he may have been affected by sun-stroke. "Even if that was so, it in no way invalidated the reality of his conversion."

It had been suggested that when the people with him heard voices and saw no man, what they might have heard was St. Paul talking to himself. The fact that the voices did not sound like his own did not disprove the theory. Those with experience of hypnosis knew that a man under light hypnosis often talked in a voice not his own. Sometimes he would speak in a child's voice or a voice

PRINTER HONOURED

FRENCH TRIBUTE TO SPONSOR

Chamonix.

William Fichet, France's first printer who was born 502 years ago in the Alpine village of Petit Bornand will shortly have a statue erected to him at his birthplace.

Fichet, who was often called "the Benjamin Franklin of France", was not the actual inventor of the printing press, but was the first to proclaim Gutenberg as the discoverer of the "art of printing with movable character." Fichet recognised the merit of Gutenberg's invention and introduced it in France where in the short space of three years the art of printing was popularised.

The first French printing shop was set up in a classroom of Sorbonne, and from this crude press came the first book ever to be printed in France.

Within two years printing establishments had been set up in nine other French cities and within a decade there were 60 printing shops in Paris alone.

To-day the printers and master-printers of France headed by Dr. Sebastian Charley of the Sorbonne, are sponsoring a movement to erect a monument to William Fichet, who gained fame not only as the first printer but as author, rector of the Sorbonne, ambassador to Italy and finally as chamberlain to Pope Sixtus IV.—United Press.

which belonged to the experience he was talking about.

Another theory that had been advanced, said Dr. England, was that St. Paul suffered from epilepsy; and that the shock was sufficient to initiate an epileptic fit, though not an epileptic fit.

CHINA MAKING OWN PAPER

PLANT TO BE BUILT IN SHANGHAI

Shanghai.

Another step in the campaign to make China self-sufficient industrially and independent of foreign imports is being taken by the Ministry of Industry with the establishment of a large-scale paper plant at Wenchow, Chekiang province.

Noting the heavy demand for imported foreign-made papers, the Ministry has decided to fill a large part of the demand by erection of a factory which will turn out all grades of paper, including newsprint, which is used in greater quantities each year. Although the new plant will be operated on the lines of a private industry, and will engage in commercial competition, its direction and control will remain in the hands of the government ministry.

Final plans are being drafted by a British engineering expert, and actual construction will commence soon, according to Liu Wei-chih, vice-minister of industry. The site at Wenchow was chosen because of advantageous communication facilities and its proximity to sources of raw material.

Total cost of the project will be about $4,500,000, of which $1,200,000 will be allotted to non-governmental commercial shareholders. A large part of the government's share of the capital is expected to come from the British Boxer Indemnity Refund Committee.—United Press.

CINEMA NEWS

NOTES FROM THE THEATRES

A pair of dark, mysterious eyes won for Carol Borland, University of California girl, one of the most sensational screen roles of the year. Her luminous orbs were the deciding factor that placed Carol Borland in the character of Lulu, the "vampire woman" in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Mark of the Vampire" after thirty-two aspirants had been tested for the role. The new detective thriller has its initial screenings to-morrow at the Queen's Theatre. Miss Borland, studying at Berkeley and appearing in the Little Theatre of the state university, read of the search for the "woman beautiful enough to scare people" and being interested in this type of role, sent Ted Browning, the director, clippings of her self in college plays. "She has eyes," says Browning, "that glow with sinister mystery. By special lighting effects they were photographed as the pre-dominant feature of her face, and thus we get a mysterious effect." The elaborate cast of "Mark of the Vampire" includes Lionel Barrymore, Lionel Atwill, Elizabeth Allan, Henry Wadsworth, Jean Harlow, and Donald Meek and many others of note.

"The Count of Monte Cristo" showing at the Oriental Theatre on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, the million dollar production of the Alexandre Dumas novel which has thrilled millions of readers in every civilized country in the world. Produced on a lavish scale, with a score of principals and hundreds of supporting players and released through United Artists, the picture offers Robert Donat, handsome young English screen and stage actor, whom film fans will recall as the King's love rival in "The Private Life of Henry VIII", in his first American-made film. Elina Landi appears opposite him in the role of Mercedes. Louis Calhern, Sidney Blackmer, O. P. Heggie, Irene Hervey, William Farnum and Raymond Walburn head the imposing supporting cast, which includes Georgia Caine, Lawrence Grant, Luis Alberni, Douglas Walton, John C. Cronin, Eleanor Phelps, Holmes Herbert, Mitchell Lewis, Lionel Belmore, Wilfred Lucas and others, under the capable direction of Rowland V. Lee, who also collaborated with Philip Dunne and Dan Totheroh on the screen adaptation.

"Romance in Manhattan" Attention to the most minute detail in settings has given the picture an intriguing, intimate picture of the sub-stratum activity of New York City, with dramatic glimpses of Ellis Island, night police courts and the steeplechase of a great ocean liner in "Romance in Manhattan", starring Francis Lederer and Ginger Rogers, coming on Sunday to the King's Theatre. The early scenes are laid in the crowded, watery sections of Manhattan and the speeding, screaming, clanging, motorized streets are faithfully reproduced that a native New Yorker would get a real pang of homesickness seeing them. The streets were built full size at the RKO-Radio ranch. The motor traffic drove just as it does in these crowded districts, and Francis Lederer, hero of the photograph, fought his way through it just as the impatient, impatient, impatient would have had to have done. In the scenes in the tenement flat, every last detail is true to life. The carpet in the hallways is faded and ragged in spots. The globes on the lights are not over clean, the view from the windows discloses rows of tenement buildings, and the usual littered backyards of the crowded sections. It is interesting to know that the backings of exteriors used in the studio settings are not painted scenery, but actual photographs enlarged to almost life size and reproduced on canvas.

"Richest Girl in the World" Stirring romance in the golden palaces of the ultra-rich, some delightfully sugar-coated philosophy and a dash of sparkling comedy are skillfully mixed in "The Richest Girl in the World," a breezy entertainment at the Star Theatre last night. The winning modern title character is in the capable hands of Miriam Hopkins, still the lovely blonde star. Her light comedy touches are splendid, her dramatic moods are fascinating, and her beauty is nothing short of bewitching. No wonder she dazzles the handsome Joel McCrea, who plays the male lead. Other superb performances are those by Fay Wray, Henry Stephenson and Reginald Denny. "The Richest Girl in the World" moves against sumptuous back-grounds, such as a Long Island mansion, an Adriatic jet, a trans-Atlantic steamer, a fashionable cafe and a fashionable salon. Fashion runs rampant, too, with enough new styles worn by Miss Hopkins and Miss Wray to gladden the heart of any clothes-minded feminine moviegoer.

"Kiss and Make-Up" In his new picture, "Kiss and Make-Up," Cary Grant, Mae West's "tall, dark and handsome" has two leading ladies. They are Genevieve Tobin and Helen Marlowe, who with the fifteen Wampas Baby Stars of 1934, are featured in Paramount's "Kiss and Make-Up" having its final showings to-day at the Queen's Theatre. The film presents Cary Grant as the owner and chief doctor of a modern temple of beauty to which the entire feminine population flock for his treatments. He falls in love with one of his most perfect creations, Genevieve Tobin and marries her. His bliss, however, is completely ruined when he comes face to face with the effects of his stringent beauty regulations. He realizes she is just a creation of powder and make-up and leaves her for his less beautiful but more sympathetic secretary, Helen.

Mick Edward Everett Horton turns in an excellent performance in a comedy role. Directed by Harlan Thompson and Jean Negulesco, "Kiss and Make-Up" was prepared for the screen from a play by Stephen Becken, Viennese playwright.

"$10 Raise" "$10 Raise", the new Fox Film comedy-drama, at the King's Theatre has a history behind it. Reviewers who have discussed this picture are convinced that Peter B. Kyne was thinking of Edward Everett Horton when he wrote "$10 Raise". Co-featured with Horton is Karen Morley. Laughs and heart-tugs alternate in this romantic human interest picture. The supporting cast consists of Alan Dinehart, Glen Boles, Bertie Churchill, Rosina Lawrence, Ray Walker, Frank Melton, and William Benedict.

"Broadway Film" Walter Winchell, Broadway columnist whose to-day's gossip is to-morrow's scandal, is author of the story of "Broadway Thru a Keyhole", the United Artists release produced by 20th Century and featuring Constance Cummings, Russ Columbo, Paul Kelly, Blossom Seeley, Abe Lyman and his band, Gregory Ratoff, Texas Guinan, Eddie Foy, Jr., and Francis Williams at the Star Theatre to-morrow. "Broadway Thru a Keyhole" has a background of night clubs and shows how a sweet and innocent young girl rose to fame, was befriended by a handsome young racketeer and finally became the wife of a famous radio crooner. Constance Cummings, Russ Columbo and Paul Kelly play the three leading roles. Others in the cast are Gregory Ratoff, Hugh O'Connell, Hobart Cavanaugh, C. Henry Gordon and Helen Jerome Eddy. Lowell Sherman directed from the script by Gene Towne and Graham Baker. Jack Haskell directed the dance numbers and Mack Gordon and Harry Revel wrote the music. It is presented by Joseph M. Schenck and Darryl F. Zanuck.

The heavy rains of the past week or so have resulted in a plentiful supply of water being available in the Colony's reservoirs, and the Water Authority announces that as from Monday next, July 8, there will be a constant supply of water to all districts on the island of Hongkong. A constant supply was given to Kowloon a little while ago, following replenishment of the reservoirs on the mainland by heavy rain.

Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin, leader of the Conservative party in England and Lord President of the Council in the Nationalist government which Mr. Ramsay MacDonald led since the last election, has again become Prime Minister of England with the resignation of his erst-while chief. Mr. MacDonald takes the post held by Mr. Baldwin. "Honest" Stanley Baldwin has twice before been premier of England, leading Conservative governments.

MEN WILL WATCH BABIES

M.P.'s LOOK AHEAD IN BRITAIN

WOMAN'S DAY TO COME

The days when women will be doing all the work in the country while the men are sitting at home looking after the babies, were envisaged by M.P.'s in the House of Commons not long ago.

"That is what is stirring in women's minds," said Mr. Lamsbury, the Labour leader. "They propose to reverse the roles. As there are more women than men, and as they grow more intelligent, it is possible that they will give the future generation of men some of the kind of medicine my generation of men have given the women."

These long-range views were expressed when Colonel Clifton Brown (U., Hexham) called attention to the position of women in industry. In the last 14 years, he pointed out, the proportion of women in employment as compared with men had doubled.

"How much longer," he said, "are we going on before women will be doing all the work in this country, while the men are sitting at home looking after the babies?" (Laughter.)

It was not a healthy situation from the point of view of employment, he continued. Women really went to work because of economic pressure. They would rather remain at home, and if their places in industry were taken by men they would be able to marry.

EQUAL PAY PRINCIPLE

Mr. Lamsbury (Soc., Bow and Bromley) said that the Labour party were pledged to the principle of equal pay, and had very often tried to carry out the principle locally, but had then found themselves in opposition to the auditor, who did not consider it the right policy to adopt.

The competition of women was unfair because the employment of women at lower pay displaced men. Intelligent men saw danger in the present situation that it would bring down men's wages. They should level up women's status rather than level down.

"I have had sent me this week a book," he said. "I think it is called 'Martha, M.P.' It is written of a time some years ahead, and if you read what men have become—the spoilt darlings of the women—and the masculine position of women, well, you have got something to look forward to, those of you who are young men." (Laughter.)

Mrs. Tate (U., Willesden) declared that the under-payment of women would inevitably lead to a lower standard of the life for the people.

The Government had set the worst possible example, because in the Civil Service they systematically employed women at a lower rate of pay than men. That position was steadily getting worse, with the result that there was an increase in the number of women employed and a decrease in the number of men.

Mr. West (Soc., Hammersmith) said 800,000 more women were employed in industry now than twenty years ago, and the chief reason was that they were cheaper than men.

GOVERNMENT'S REPLY

Mr. R. S. Hudson, Parliamentary Secretary, Ministry of Labour, replying, said if they took industry as a whole there was not the disparity in pay for equal work which was very commonly alleged.

He did not think it could be said with any truth that, taking the last ten years, women had materially displaced men in industry. Since 1911 there had been a tiny increase in the number of women employed.

It had been said that women were displacing men because they did repetition work more cheaply than men. He did not think taking industry as a whole, there was any real justification for that statement.

The information of the Ministry was rather that where women had displaced men for purely repetition work the reason why they had displaced them was that they did it more efficiently. Women were better adapted for purely repetition work than men. That was one of the main reasons for their invasion.

The number of men employed had increased in proportion more than the number of women. If they took the lists of trades in this country where the number of women had increased during the last ten years, the number of men engaged in these industries had not fallen.

WHY A LOWER RATE?

Major Hills (U., Ripon) said that in the Civil Service men and women were called on to undergo the same examination and to do the same work, but they did not get the same pay.

It had been said by the Parliamentary Secretary that women were more efficient than men in repetition work. Why did they receive lower pay?

Sir P. Harris (Lib., Bethnal Green) said that what they wanted was a Government lead that should make it clear to the country that they were not employing women to do men's work because it was cheaper.

Lady Astor (U., Plymouth) said the case for equal pay for equal work had been put so extraordinarily well by the men that women did not need to speak. (Hear, hear). All they asked was a lead from the Government in the hope that industry would follow.

the sugar beet industry £7,000,000 a year could afford to give equal pay for equal work for its own employees.

IF RATES WERE EQUAL

Mr. Duff Cooper, Financial Secretary to the Treasury, said the Government would necessarily pay attention to the views expressed in debate, and that was all he could undertake to-day.

If, he said, there were complete equality of pay between men and women, the number of women employed would be lower because, in the majority of cases, an employer would prefer for the same money the work of a man to the work of a woman.

The policy of the Government was that they should be as good as, if not better, than the best employers in the country, but not that they should be a long way ahead of them, because that would be putting too great a strain on industry. When industry went ahead in this matter, the State would not be far behind.

Do you get headaches at the end of the day?

Do you feel "all in" at the end of the day's work—nervy, irritable, unable to concentrate? Ten to one it's your eyes that are the whole cause of the trouble.

Your eyes never get a moment's rest. All through the day they are hard at work, constantly focussing and re-focussing, concentrating on written and printed matter, often under artificial light and in a close, smoky atmosphere. Even when you relax they still have a gruelling time, exposed to the fast-moving lights of traffic, the flickering of a cinema screen, the constant irritation of tobacco smoke.

There's one sure way to put an end to those recurrent headaches—bathe your eyes with Optrex night and morning. This gentle tonic lotion soothes away soreness and tiredness, and cleanses the eyes of all impurities. Optrex gives your eyes a new lease of vigorous life, enabling you to tackle the hardest day's work without the slightest sensation of eyestrain.

SECURITY BY WRONG METHODS

There are quite a number of Governments on the Continent of Europe at the moment which are facing severe financial crises. Germany is finding herself obliged to slow up her programme of work-relief; Italy has a heavy Budget deficit; France is still grappling with a crisis which has long been threatening to force the frame off gold. Everywhere the yield of taxation is declining; everywhere there is talk of economies; everywhere civil servants, teachers and others are faced with the prospect of salary or pension cuts. Plainly one of the principal causes of these financial worries is the immense, and still growing, expenditure upon armaments. They have made these increases in the search for security. Germany has re-armed because she felt her security menaced by the arms of France; France has re-armed through fear of German armaments. German rearmament has led to a Franco-Russian alliance. Thus the search for security through rearmament has led only to heightened insecurity and suspicion. Meanwhile the Finance Ministers are worried in vain attempts to make revenue balance expenditure, and industry and the taxpayer are burdened by vast and increasing taxes. The old pre-war Punch cartoon of the French workman and the German workman bowed down beneath loads of rifles, guns, swords and ammunition is as appropriate now as it was two years before the outbreak of the World War. There remains but one way of saving all these hard-hit countries from financial disaster and their populations from grinding, unproductive taxation. Cuts in social services, pensions and salaries can only bring hardship and discontent. Reduction in armaments, on the other hand, means a reduction of the suspicion and of the competition between nations which leads ultimately to war. On financial grounds alone, to say nothing of higher considerations, it would be to the good of the whole world if a big scheme of armaments reduction could be devised by international agreement. Unhappily, at the moment the prospects of such an agreement appear rather remote, but there can be no questioning the point that the world situation will not be eased so long as

NOTES OF THE DAY

ITALY'S CHARGES

It is distressing that the Italian press, which is well known to be controlled very rigidly by the Government of the country, has seen fit to resume its attacks upon Great Britain. The semi-official Giornale d'Italia, which generally speaks for Signor Mussolini, has made a surprising charge against the British Government, declaring that Britain has commenced an economic and political "occupation" aimed at the complete "occupation" of Abyssinia. What the Italian press hopes to accomplish with assertions of this sort it is hard to imagine since their accuracy, even to those not particularly familiar with British policy of the past several years, must be doubtful. It is true that Great Britain is endeavouring to keep the peace in Africa, that she is perhaps using her influence in various ways to prevent Italy from plunging into a war whose dimensions even the far-seeing Il Duce may not be able to foretell. But when it is admitted that Italy herself intends to occupy Abyssinia and that she will accept no compromise in place of the conflict, the Italian newspaper's allegation becomes a complete absurdity. There have been hints dropped, and given prominent publicity, to the effect that Great Britain will endeavour to obtain support of League members in blockading Italy in the event of aggression against Abyssinia. If these reports are true Italy may very well feel some apprehension and even animosity towards the Government which is thwarting her ambitions. But this is no time for newspapers to initiate one of those campaigns of "hate" which the Great War perfected. This is a time for circumspection in international affairs, a time for most careful scrutiny of official or semi-official comment, and above all it is a time for arbitration and sane collaboration rather than accusations and affronts.

DAY OF TRAGEDY

America has made her annual sacrifice to sentiment. It has fittingly remembered the Fourth of July, the day of independence, when a handful of grim-visaged, hard-fisted colonists defied the power of Great Britain and demanded their freedom. Each year America recklessly celebrates that occasion of high courage with an abandon which the Fathers of Independence would not likely condone. Each year America pays in human lives a greater price for freedom won by blood and battle. Throughout the United States on Thursday more than ninety persons died as a result of the Independence day festivities. Last year 177 met their end for the same cause. It is senseless and pitiful. And the tragedy of it is that frequently the victims of the nation's delirious celebration are children who are scarcely old enough to know what the festivities mean, what heroism they commemorate and what high moral purpose was that of the men America is supposed to remember when it toasts "The Spirit of '76."

B.B.C. PRONUNCIATION

In the days when Great Britain had a series of little wars on hand it was said that the British people learned geography from their wars. Usually, however, they did not learn the proper pronunciation of the strange names of some of the places involved in the campaign till well on in the war, if ever. In any case, they did not worry about such things, for there was no standard of pronunciation, or no B.B.C. to impose it. Nowadays such questions arouse no little attention, and sometimes irritation. The latest instance has arisen over the Quetta disaster. Some announcers are accused of saying "Balukistan" instead of "Baluchistan," and an indignant expert, no less than a University professor, cries out at the enormity of the offence of pronouncing as "ch" the "ch" as in cheese. The B.B.C., he says, might be expected to ascertain the correct English pronunciation of the name, that is to say, the normal pronunciation used when talking English by the thousands of Englishmen who are or have been resident in India.

there remains a tendency towards the piling up of more armaments in a vain race to achieve security by such means. Rivalry in this sphere has in the past been shown to be a fruitful cause of war, and there is no reason to assume that, if permitted to go unchecked, it will not lead to the same disastrous consequences to-day. It is an ironical circumstance that the competition in armaments is based on what are regarded as the needs of security. Yet the very security which is sought is threatened by the continued rivalry. In the last analysis, the whole business turns on suspicion and distrust, and these factors will not disappear until there is a definite move made towards disarmament.

EPICS WHICH MUST BE FORGOTTEN

By "AN OLD STAGER"

CERTAIN well-meaning busy-bodies are proposing to re-write our school history books. The existing ones, they say, are much too full-blooded, and need drastic sub-editing. There is far too much about battles and fighting in them, and all these deplorable episodes must be cut out in order that future generations of young Britons may grow up into perfect ready-made pacifists, which makes me think that Mr. Shaw's classic epigram has a wider application than he gave it, and that pacifism would be all right if it were not for the pacifists.

If the revisionists get their way, and our history primers are bowdlerised to make them safe for little pacifists, I shall be sorry for those who have to teach their history. Speaking with absolute certainty for myself and my contemporaries, the big and little battle episodes were what put the pep into the history hour. They were the high lights of an otherwise rather gloomily depressing school interlude. Bereft of them, the average school history book would be too drab even to hold the youthful imagination. What healthy infant wants to sit upon a form and hear sad stories of the death of kings?

Peaceful deaths I mean, of course. When a monarch happened to knock out in battle after a square deal, or to have his head cut off with due pomp and circumstance, it was different. That sort of thing gripped the youthful imagination. It was the pep on which memory hung those woeful dates. But nobody cared two hoots about kings, or even queens, whose demise followed tamely the logically appointed course of nature.

That was how I and my contemporaries of forty years ago, or thereabouts, felt about it. It may, of course, be different now, but I respectfully venture to doubt it. Forty years is an astonishingly brief period in which to stage a complete revolution in juvenile psychology.

But I admit that life, and our outlook on it, is obviously changing. In ancient times as distant as the Siege of Troy, and as near as our Elizabethan era, women used to weave tapestries in commemoration of the epic deeds of heroes. Weaving is now done by machinery, most women have given up knitting except as a novelty, and masculine heroism is at a heavy post-war discount. Almost any busy modern street in these days is getting to be slightly more dangerous than the average muzzle-loading battlefield. This points the moral of the huge mistake made by our pacifist friends in trying to sub-edit history. Nowadays everybody outside a lunatic asylum or a munition trust must necessarily be a convinced pacifist.

So why make the serious psychological error of seeming to admit that fighting and battles, on the modern system of mass, mechanical murder, are so attractive that our young people must not even read in their schoolbooks about those of a past age and an entirely different character? There is always a danger, if you start bowdlerising books, that you may create a keen inquisitive demand for handy editions containing the bowdlerised parts only.

The same people made the same mistake when they decided to suppress school cadet corps. There is no surer method of converting the average schoolboy into a ferocious anti-militarist than making him dedicate several precious hours a week to being drastically put through the back-aching monotonies of company drill. As missionaries of jingo militarism, your normal drill instructors are about as comical a fiasco as a bald canvasser for an infallible patent hair restorer, about as effective an advertisement for an Army career as a blind man on crutches of the glories of modern war.

My own pacifism is tolerably fervent, and yet I regret that fair ladies no longer weave tapestries in commemoration of epic heroism. A Dutch tapestry dated 1598 has just been identified by experts as illustrating Sir Richard Grenville's exploit in the Revenge. It shows that gallant ship, of only 500 tons register, which incidentally was the one Drake commanded against the Armada, dismantled and hemmed in by the Spanish fleet off the Azores. She was then, as renders of Tennyson know well, commanded by Sir Richard Grenville, a stout old West Country sea-dog, whose grandfather had been Marshal of Calais in Henry VIII's time, and whose father went down in 1545 with the Mary Rose. Sir Richard was second in command, under Admiral Lord Thomas Howard, of an English "squadron" of sixteen vessels sent to intercept Spanish treasure galleons homeward bound from Mexico.

When the English ships were foul with long sailing, and had many sick aboard, word reached them that a Spanish fleet of fifty-three great ships was approaching. Lord Howard prudently decided that the odds was too great, and set sail to avoid a hopeless encounter.

Stout old Sir Richard Grenville was not so minded. Over ninety of his West countrymen were sick ashore, and he refused to abandon them to the tender mercies of the Spanish Inquisition. Even when the invalids were brought aboard, Sir Richard was urged to make a bolt for safety. There was still just a faint chance he might have managed it. But he declined to take it. Never had he turned his back, he asserted, on Don or devil, and he was in no mood to begin doing it now. Straight into the teeth of the Spaniards he set his course, resolved to fight his way through a whole fleet.

Fifty-three to one was a tall order. Yet Sir Richard—bidding a small sloop, that gallantly offered to stand by him, seek safety in flight—held grimly on towards the Dons. So long as he could keep sea-way on the Revenge, and seamanship and a chance to manoeuvre her, he put up a successful fight. But one huge Spaniard, drawing close to windward, blanketed his sails, and then ensued a stationary sea combat without parallel in naval history.

For fifteen hours Sir Richard held the Spaniards at bay, all through one night and into another day, till the smoke from the guns obscured the heavens. The Spanish flagship that blanketed him had enough in twenty minutes, and sheered off again, and fifteen other Spaniards were shattered and sinking when they did the same. But

POLICE OFFICER'S
TRAGIC ENDNO EVIDENCE TO SHOW
STATE OF MIND

At the inquest on Police Sergeant James Kennedy, yesterday, the jury stated that there had been no evidence to show what the state of mind of deceased was. The inquest was conducted by Mr. Wynne-Jones at the Kowloon Magistrate's Court. It will be recalled that Sergeant Kennedy was found shot through the head in his quarters at the Mongkok Police Station on June 6.

Members of the jury empanelled were Mr. John Henry Maycock (Foreman), Mr. John Jex-Maxwell and Mr. King Man-tse. Mr. J. H. Price was excused from appearing in Court as a juror on the grounds of having to leave the Colony that night.

In opening the inquest the Coroner said that Police Sergeant Kennedy had been found on the night of June 6 in his quarters at Mongkok Police Station with a bullet wound through his head. His police revolver lay beside him with one round discharged.

"As you can well understand," the Coroner said to the jury, "we, the Police, have been particularly careful in making inquiries into this case to try, if possible, to put our fingers on some reason for Sergeant Kennedy having taken his own life. The reports of the inquiries, which took place according to my directions as Coroner, were brought to me. Many of the inquiries produced entirely negative results. I do not propose to call on them. It would be a waste of time to ask you as a jury to listen to witnesses after witnesses saying he does not know why Sergeant Kennedy shot himself. Therefore, I propose, as far as possible, to reduce the evidence to actual positive evidence, to witnesses who saw him just before his death, to his immediate superior officer and to his best known companion in the Force. I am perfectly prepared to call on any person you want, but I assure you that we have done our best to find something positive in this respect.

"You are brought here as members of the public because we want the mind of (forgive the expression) 'the man in the street' to bear on a problem like this which may sometimes produce an answer which we, because we are possibly too near it, may miss. It is possible that you may think of something we have overlooked. I would, therefore, be grateful if you could help us."

Death Instantaneous

Dr. Henry, Medical Officer in charge of the Kowloon Mortuary, gave evidence that on June 7, at 9.30 a.m., he held a post-mortem examination on the body of Police Sergeant James Kennedy, aged 49, identified by Inspector Dorrington. The cause of death was a gun shot wound in the head and laceration of the brain.

Externally, there were two bullet wounds, one slightly behind the right ear and one three inches above the left ear. The lower lip was bitten in two places. This probably occurred prior to or with the firing of the shot. There was a slight bruising on each foot.

Internally, a track led from one head wound to the other. There were no other signs of disease except obesity and a slightly fatty heart. Death was instantaneous.

Acting Sub-Inspector T. A. Hughes, stationed at Tsimshatsui Police Station, entered the witness stand and said that at 11.35 p.m. on June 6, he went to Mongkok Police Station, where he was then stationed.

Lying On His Back

"After talking for about five minutes," he continued, "I went up to my room which I shared with Sergeant Kennedy and Baker. The door was open and one light was burning. On entering, I saw Sergeant Kennedy lying on his back under the chest of drawers. I called 'Jim,' thinking he had slipped and fallen. I switched on the other light, bent down, turned his head and saw blood coming from his mouth. The revolver was lying a few inches away from his half-outstretched right arm. I then informed the Inspector."

In reply to questions from the Coroner, witness said that he had last seen Sergeant Kennedy at 11 o'clock that morning and he appeared to be in good spirits. Sergeant Kennedy and witness had been roommates for twelve months and, during that time, Kennedy had never mentioned a word about taking his own life and had no money or official troubles.

Four months previous to his death, he asked witness if the cough he had every morning was a sign of consumption. He did not, however, seem troubled over his health and on many occasions expressed himself satisfied with his life and conditions.

Inspector F. T. Portallion, acting in charge of the Mongkok Police Station, deposed that about five minutes after he returned to the police station, about 11.50 p.m. on June 6, he was called to Sergeant Kennedy's room by his witness.

Expended Bullet Found

Near deceased was found a revolver, which was fully loaded except for one round which had been discharged. An examination revealed a chip mark on the east wall near the ceiling. An expended bullet was found under deceased's bed.

On the same night witness examined Sergeant Kennedy's kit and went through his correspondence, but found nothing of any use. There was a large quantity of money, consisting of $285 in Hongkong currency, 241 (40 £1 notes and two 10 shilling notes), and a receipt for $300 in the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank.

WHEAT SUPPLIES

CANADA TIRED OF WITH-HOLDING STOCKS

London, July 5. The proposed reversal of the Canadian Government's grain policy, which is the equivalent of the adoption of the Liberal Opposition policy, is the dominating cause of the sensational break in wheat.

"Canada is serving notice to competitors that she is tired of withholding stocks while attempting to secure their co-operation, and intends to compete in the open market, bludgeoning competitors into international accord."

This summarizes the opinion of the grain circles here who believe however that the Government will attempt to let down the price structure gently.

Until the Southern Hemisphere new crops are ready at the end of the year, Canada may succeed in disposing of a fair portion of the current crop but little impression will be made on the huge past accumulations.—Reuter.

About 12.55 p.m. on the same day witness saw deceased in his office, and at that time he seemed quite cheerful. During the time he was at Mongkok Police Station deceased never complained to witness about anything.

Questioned, witness could not make any suggestion for deceased's action. He was very keen on his work; he was on the detective staff and was a likely man for promotion. Witness thought very well of deceased.

Sergeant Thomas Daly, of the Shamshuipo Police Station, stated that he had known deceased ever since he came to Hongkong some 12 years ago. Witness was one of Sergeant Kennedy's most intimate friends.

About 8 p.m. on June 6 witness was having dinner in his room when deceased came up to see him. Deceased told witness that he had been passed in the examination for promotion to sub-inspector but that he thought he was "down" in the drill examination and said, "I wouldn't go through it again for any money."

Deceased stayed with witness in the room until 9 p.m. when witness had to go on duty. They went down and talked outside the charge room for about 20 minutes, and deceased said, "I'll go back to take a few pills and go to bed." That was the last witness saw of him.

Was Always Cheerful

Questioned witness stated that he knew nothing of what would cause Kennedy to take his own life, he (deceased) was always cheerful and happy. "I have never seen him with a woman," continued witness, "in fact I don't think he was a lady's man." He was not a heavy drinker and had a cheerful disposition and was very popular.

Although the drill examination had taken a lot out of the deceased, he did not seem to be depressed during the conversation, and he made the remark quite ordinarily.

The Coroner then informed the jury that Mr. Scott, the Deputy Superintendent of Police (Kowloon), and Detective-Inspector A. J. W. Dorrington, both of them could not give any further evidence apart from what had already been given. In the event of the jury wishing to hear the evidence of Inspector Dorrington it would be necessary to adjourn the hearing for one week, as he was at the present moment indisposed and was in hospital.

The Coroner further recalled that he had been worried because he had had occasion to reprimand deceased once, but had gathered from Inspector Dorrington that deceased was not worried about that in the slightest.

The jury decided that it would not be necessary to hear the evidence of Mr. Scott or Inspector Dorrington, and without retiring gave a verdict of suicide, and added that there was no evidence to show what state of mind the deceased was in.

YANGTZE FLOOD

HIGHEST LEVEL FOR THE PAST 60 YEARS?

Shanghai, July 5. That the Yangtze River inundation remains serious is the official statement issued by Mr. Fu Yu-lin, Chairman of the Yangtze Conservancy Board. Gauges at some ports along the Yangtze show that the flood is the most serious for any period between January and June in the past 60 years.

The seriousness has been reported to the Nanking Government and a substantial sum for repair work will be needed. A party of river conservancy workers under a Chinese engineer are making a tour of the ports to render what temporary relief is possible.

Hankow's Position. Hankow, July 5. Flood anxiety is unabated at Hankow, where the water level is just below 47 feet.

The rise continued, but at a rate considerably slower each day, and the position with regard to the actual water marks of the river is optimistic.

There was, however, an alarming telegram from Ichang this morning recording a rise of five and a half feet, but with the river so high it does not follow that it will necessarily rise at Hankow also, as the water is able to drain off over land before reaching here. Rain is still an important factor and hopes are rising with the rising barometer.

The authorities are preparing to close the gaps between long concrete walls and several pumps which have already been installed are now working, discharging the contents of the sewers.

Behind Hankow, workers are very busy at the various dykes, particularly on the Changkung dyke, which is now the sole bulwark of this city after the recent collapse of the Hangcheng dyke.

Outlying districts are believed to have suffered seriously from the flood and the Central China Post reports from Hanyang state that Paishachow, which is ten li above the City, is inundated, and several hundred houses are submerged.—Reuter.

Activity at Hankow. Hankow, July 5. Feverish activity is going on all day long on the bund, where hundreds of coolies with thick planks and sand are engaged in blocking up the openings along the four-foot wall.

The water is at present over-lapping the German and Japanese bunds, but is not yet alarming. At Ichang the official rise is 7.4 feet. At Shanghai the rise is 3.5 feet and at Changshai the water level has fallen 0.2 feet.

At Kiu-kiang and Wuhu the level has not risen which shows that the water is clearing off down river.—Reuter.

EPICS WHICH MUST

Revenge was a riddled and dismantled ruin on the sea, with nearly half her crew down, and Sir Richard himself mortally hit.

Then it was Sir Richard gave the famous order immortalised in verse:—

"Sink me the ship, master gunner, sink her, split her in twain."

Fall into the hands of God, not into the hands of Spain." His captain treated with the Spanish admiral for honourable terms, and Revenge surrendered under promise of safe escort home for all her survivors. Grenville, breathing blood and defiance, died aboard the Spanish flagship two days later. I rejoice that they have put him on a tapestry as well as in a poem. And I fail to understand how modern youth's conviction as to the wasteful and ugly stupidity of mass murder with machine-guns and poison gas can be weakened by reading an epic of high chivalry and dauntless courage such as Grenville's.

At the date of his death Sir Richard was fifty years old. Had he deserted his sick sailors, and cut and run, he might perhaps have survived to the age of seventy or even more. But for the twenty years or so of mortal existence he gave up, Sir Richard gained three centuries of immortal fame. During that time his name has been an example and inspiration to every Englishman worth his salt. That splendid memorial to himself and his gallant men was abundantly worth while.

Our strong pacifism to-day will not be any stronger through our refusal to admire the deeds of dead heroes of a past epoch. We must weigh conduct by the age in which it manifested itself. Spain was a very real menace to our sixteenth-century ancestors—as was Germany to us in 1914. If we can congratulate ourselves on living in a time of greater security, real or fancied, that is no reason for refusing to honour the memory and the deeds of men who, in a ruder and less enlightened age, did not fear to live dangerously and die heroically.

Sir Richard and his brave men fought for freedom, and, if ever our hard-won British birthright is again in jeopardy, whether from foes without or within the realm, I trust something of their same spirit may inspire a more fortunate generation of sincere but discriminating pacifists.

A dangerous condition. The dyke was seriously damaged by the 1934 flood after which the Nanking Government spent $200,000 for its repair but the job has only been partly completed.

The Wuchang government has instructed the engineers of the River Conservancy Board to send their men to repair the dyke.—Wah Kiu Yat Po.

MIXED MARRIAGE IN AFRICA

"WHITES MUST DARK THEIR SKINS"

BERNARD SHAW GIVES ADVICE

Mr. Bernard Shaw has returned home from South Africa an advocate of inter-marriage between the white and black inhabitants.

By this means, he suggests, the white population of South Africa can solve the vital problem on which, in his view, its very existence depends.

A few hours after his arrival in London, he spoke in an interview of the seriousness of the situation as it appeared to him.

He has come back tremendously impressed by the extraordinary pleasantness of the climate. But it is the wonderful sunshine which is creating the danger.

"The question," he said, "is beginning to arise whether white people can survive in these places. I do not mean that you die of the climate—you don't. The question is, whether your descendants will breed."

"While I was in South Africa a rather astonishing thing happened. Mr. Oswald Pirow, Minister of Railways, made an appeal for immigrants, who were 'necessary to keep up the white population.' What does that mean?"

"The white population in America is normally fertile, and it might be thought that there would be no difficulty in filling up South Africa. But South Africa does not fill up. It is not a question of birth control, because many people there are desirous to have children, but they do not have them."

TOO MUCH SUNSHINE

"I suppose it may be there is too much sunshine for people with white skins. The probable remedy is for them to darken their skins."

"This means, in South Africa, by marrying Bantus."

"Would not such an idea be highly repugnant to white people?" the interviewer asked.

"Well," replied Mr. Shaw, "there are a great many half-breeds. In Hawaii they told me that the South Sea Islanders were disappearing and that very few pure-bred ones are left."

"In South Africa the mixture of the two colours may provide the solution to the problem. It is not a question of black and white. In the first place there is no such thing as a white man on the face of the earth; the Chinese call us the pinkies, very properly.

"The Zulus are a markedly superior type of person, and all attempts to keep them in an inferior position seem to break down before the fact that they are not inferior. Certainly when you see them working you wish you could see British workmen working that way."

AFRICA FOR THE AFRICANS

Mr. Shaw suggested that the problem was not confined to South Africa, but extended to a very large part of the African continent.

"People," he said, "are speaking glibly now about giving the Germans back their colonies. There is Abyssinia on which Mussolini is thinking of laying his hand."

"You may parcel the country out among the European Powers, but at the back of it one day Africa will say: 'None of you will have it.' Africans, whether Afrikaner, black, white, or anything else, will see that Africa belongs to the Africans and not to so many competing European Powers."

"There may be mixture of blood, and so on, but the native has a good deal of capacity—in the long run it may be seen that he has the capacity to live in Africa and the others have not."

Mr. Shaw discussed other subjects, and expressed the following views:

Socialist Governments.—For anything our Socialist Cabinets were able to do with the Parliamentary machine they might have been a collection of retired colonels—and if they had been they might have been much more intelligent.

LIES ABOUT RUSSIA

Russia.—We are told lies about what is going on in Russia. Nobody in England has any notion of the curious political discoveries and inventions they have made. The reason that the Russian laughs at our Parliamentary system—voting and all this rubbish—is simply because he has something much better.

Dictators.—The whole secret of Hitler and Mussolini is that they have the gumption to see that political issue which used to take 30 years to solve must now be solved at once. We are still going on with the nineteenth century twaddle about liberty and freedom of this and the other. Mussolini is a great psychologist, a thing of which our statesmen have no notion whatever. He understands the state of mind of the people of Italy, and that is the secret of his success.

FIGHTING
CHILDRENELIMINATION
IN SIGHT

San Francisco.

Brazil hopes to have stamped out leprosy by 1960. The efforts of the South American nation to rid herself of her most serious public health problem were revealed by Dr. Hamilton H. Anderson who recently returned from a visit to Brazil.

Dr. Anderson is assistant clinical professor of pharmacology at the University of California Medical School.

The California Medical School, the Pacific Institute of Tropical Medicine and a number of other medical centres maintain close relations with the work now being done in the southern republic.

Brazil's intelligent efforts to save her people from the scourge that has been dreaded for centuries followed the lead of European nations which have protected their inhabitants from danger of becoming lepers.

The leprosaria in Rio de Janeiro, Mina Gernes and Sao Paulo have succeeded in segregating most of the stricken natives.

Dr. Anderson reported that efforts have been so successful thus far that Brazil has well-founded hopes of ridding the country of the scourge within another generation.

"A reasonable goal should be no new cases of leprosy after 1960," he said.

Dr. Anderson pointed out that the Norwegians had a leprosy incidence twice that of Brazil and were able to stamp it out in half a century.

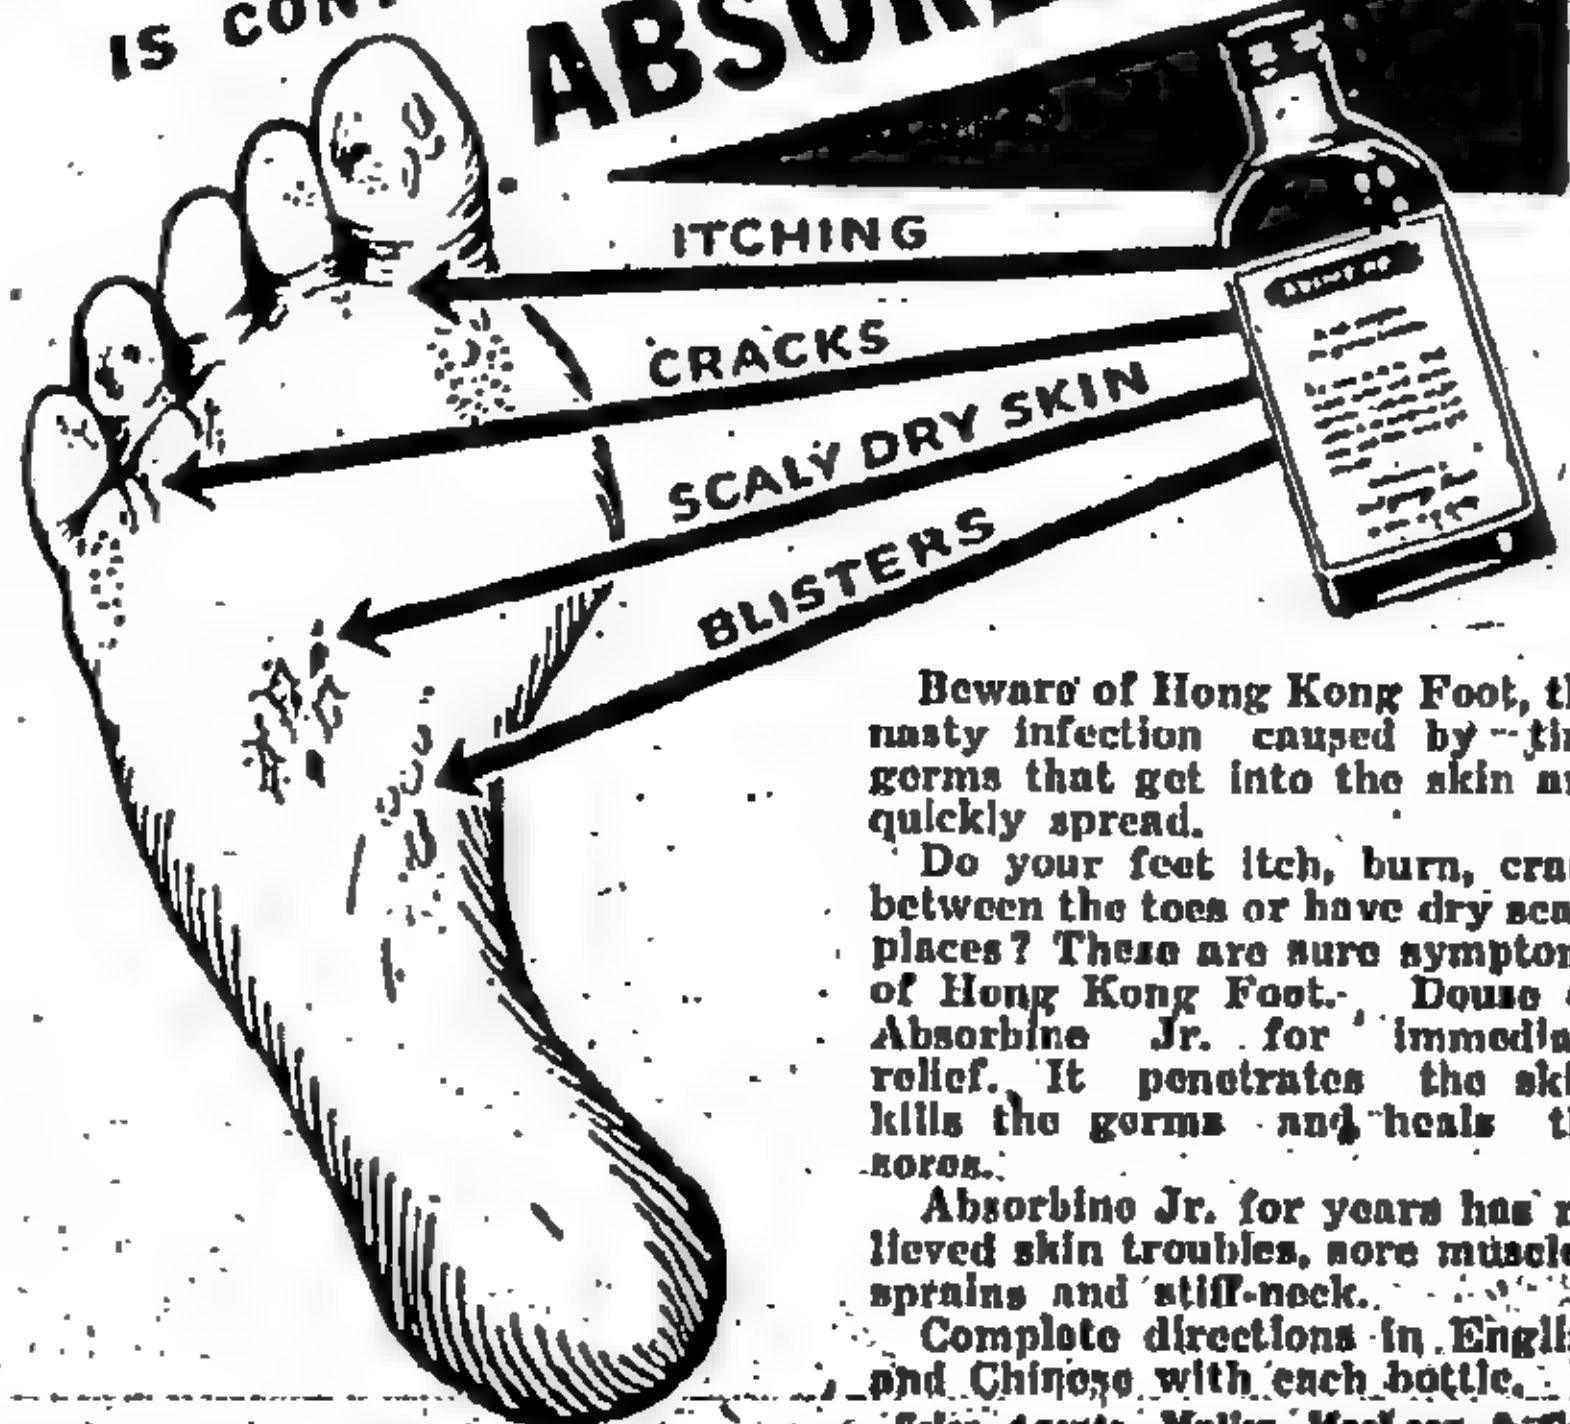

Brazil is seeking international co-operation in fighting her problem of leprosy. The Centro Internacional de Leprosia in Rio de Janeiro is maintained by a consortium of the Brazilian government, the League of Nations and the donor, Dr. G. Guinle to afford facilities for visiting scientists to work in co-operation with the Brazilian authorities.

A forward stride in the work of eradicating the disease has been the segregation of the children of leprosy parents.

A preventorium has been completed within the past few months near Santa Isabel, Minas Geras. At the last count there were 36 babies and children there, with a happy future, free of leprosy, before them. Facilities for several times that number have been completed.

This is in the opinion of Dr. Anderson is one of the most important phases in the movement to control the disease. It is known that 40 per cent. of these children would become diseased by contact with parents.

The several preventoria throughout Brazil have also assumed the task of segregating children of tuberculous parents, to further safeguard the public health.—United Press.

ENGLISH MONEY FOR AUSTRALIALARGE SUMS TO BE INVESTEDACTIVITY IN MINING

Very large amounts of English capital are being earmarked for, or are actually in process of, investment in Australia for the development of enormously rich mineral resources which have never been more than "scratched."

Recovery from depression and the difficulties with which Australia is confronted, in the sale of the whole of her exportable produce, including meat, are resulting in greatly increased activity all over the continent in mining development. This is being considerably helped in the reduction of transport difficulties and charges by the invention and use of the "road train", which does not even need a road track.

Vast mica deposits in the "out-back" of Central Australia, long maligned as "desert", are being opened up, and negotiations have been almost completed for the investment of substantial English capital in them, says Austral News.

Northern Australia, until recent years comparatively unknown except by cattlemen, "swaggies", "fossilickers" and buffalo hunters, is also attracting British capital, so far to the extent of half a million pounds, to develop its gold fields, the wealth of which is unknown. Meanwhile the Federal Government has sent out two Air Force machines, with elaborate aerial photographic and survey equipment, on a survey of 30,000 square miles of territory. It is the first scientific probe on a large scale of the hidden auriferous wealth of the northern half of Australia, and will take three years.

A great expansion in Queensland gold mining has occurred in the past year, following increased British investment. Nearly half a million pounds worth of the metal was extracted, according to a report just issued, which placed the State second, as a producer, in the Federation.

In the south, in Victoria, considerable attention is being focussed on oil. At Lakes Entrance, in the south-east corner of the continent, the investigating petroleum engineer has reported that in a field of 2½ square miles there is oil sand containing about forty million barrels of commercial oil, of which about half is recoverable. One bore has already produced 70,000 barrels. This is considered of great importance to that part of the Empire in the Pacific which spends millions a year in foreign oil products.

Found in Film
on teeth...
the germs of tooth decay!

Buried beneath an ever-forming film, this invisible enemy attacks enamel and destroys the part beneath. To fight decay, you must remove film every day.

This is what the scientist finds when he analyzes film on teeth:
1. A species of Lactobacilli now held responsible for tooth decay by many authorities.
2. A species of Streptococcus Pyogenes.

YOU don't need a microscope to pick out film-stained teeth. The naked eye can see them, for film is discolored.

But where the naked eye sees ugliness, the microscope sees danger. Magnify film 1,000 times and you will see living germs of many kinds.

Destroyers of lovely teeth

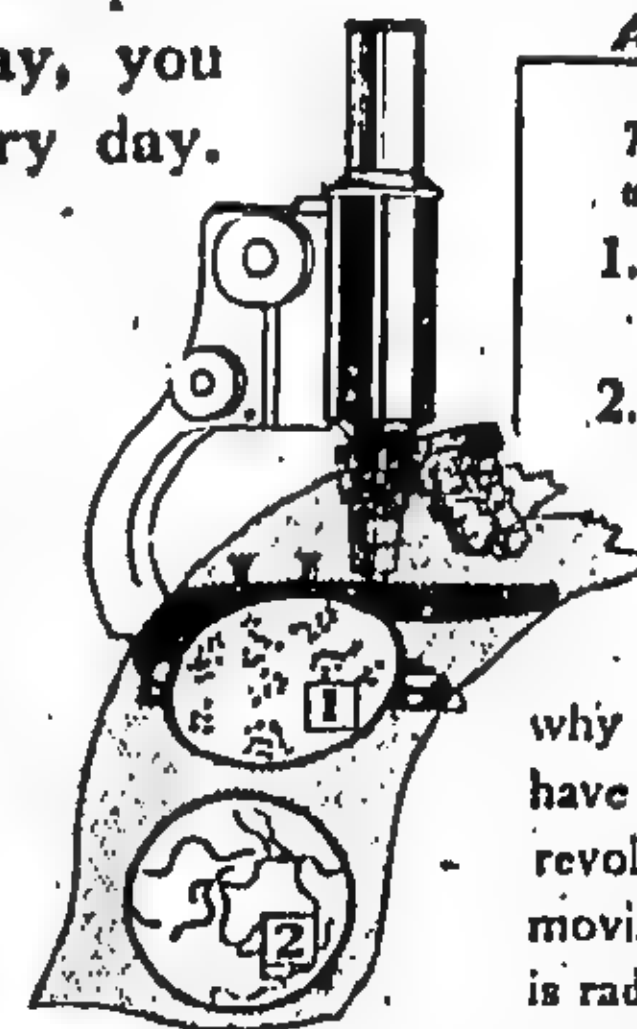

Lactobacilli are "germs of tooth decay." They feed on particles of food that cling to teeth. They give off acid that dissolves tooth enamel, then devours the part beneath. Finally the nerve is reached.

The film scraped from a single tooth may easily contain millions of living organisms. The only way science accepts of removing germs from teeth is to remove the protective film-coat in which they multiply. Film defies all ordinary ways of brushing. That's why Pepsodent laboratories have developed a new and revolutionary material for removing ugly, stubborn film. It is radically different from any found in other tooth pastes, different in composition and in action.

Some tooth pastes clean with materials so hard that they scratch enamel. The new material in Pepsodent is soft—twice as soft as the material commonly used in dentifrices. Yet it shows extraordinary power in removing film and giving brilliant polish.

This new cleansing and polishing material is contained in Pepsodent exclusively. Remember that when you are tempted to save money on cheap tooth pastes.

KENT SUFFER DEFEAT AFTER SCORING 439 RUNS

SECOND INNINGS COLLAPSE

SUSSEX WIN BY WIDE MARGIN

DOUBLE CENTURY BY HOLMES

London, July 5. Kent, at Tunbridge Wells had the unusual experience of scoring 439 runs in the County Cricket Championship during the past three days and then suffering defeat by the wide margin of 83 runs. Their conquerors were Sussex, who caused the collapse of the home county in their second innings for a paltry 98 runs.

Sussex had first lease of the wickets but were dismissed for 282 runs and then the Kent batsmen made merry at the expense of the visiting bowlers. Frank Woolley scored his third century of the season and the 136th of his career when he compiled a total of 172 runs to enable Kent to compile the huge score of 439 runs.

In their second innings Sussex fared slightly better than in their first and had 338 runs on the board when their last wicket fell. However, the score was sufficient to force a victory, as Kent completely collapsed in their second venture and were dismissed for 98 runs, leaving Sussex winners by 83 runs.

RESULTS AT A GLANCE

COUNTY CHAMPIONSHIP

Sussex (282 and 338) beat Kent (439 and 98) by 83 runs. Surrey (430 and 164 for 7 wickets, dec.) beat Derbyshire (244 and 150 for 1 wkt.) on first innings.

Glamorgan (460 or 8 wickets, dec. and 18 for 0 wkt.) beat Hampshire (226 and 248) by ten wickets.

Yorkshire (253 and 228 for 5 wickets, dec.) beat Essex (150 and 105) by 226 runs.

FRIENDLY MATCHES

South African (173 and 284) beat Somerset (218 and 183) by 51 runs.

DERBY DROP POINTS

Derbyshire, the leaders of the County Championship, dropped valuable points when playing against Surrey at Chesterfield where they lost on first innings, and only just maintain their position at the top of affairs.

E. R. T. Holmes, the Surrey captain, was in his very best batting form and made the highest score of his career in first class cricket. He rattled up 206 runs out of a total of 430 made by Surrey. Although Derbyshire had a valuable contribution from Worthington, who made 107, they were only able to collect 244 runs. Watts made six for 74.

With their second innings total standing at 164 for seven wickets Surrey declared. A. Pope took five for 31. At the close of play Derbyshire had made 150 for the loss of but one wicket.

SOUTH AFRICANS WIN

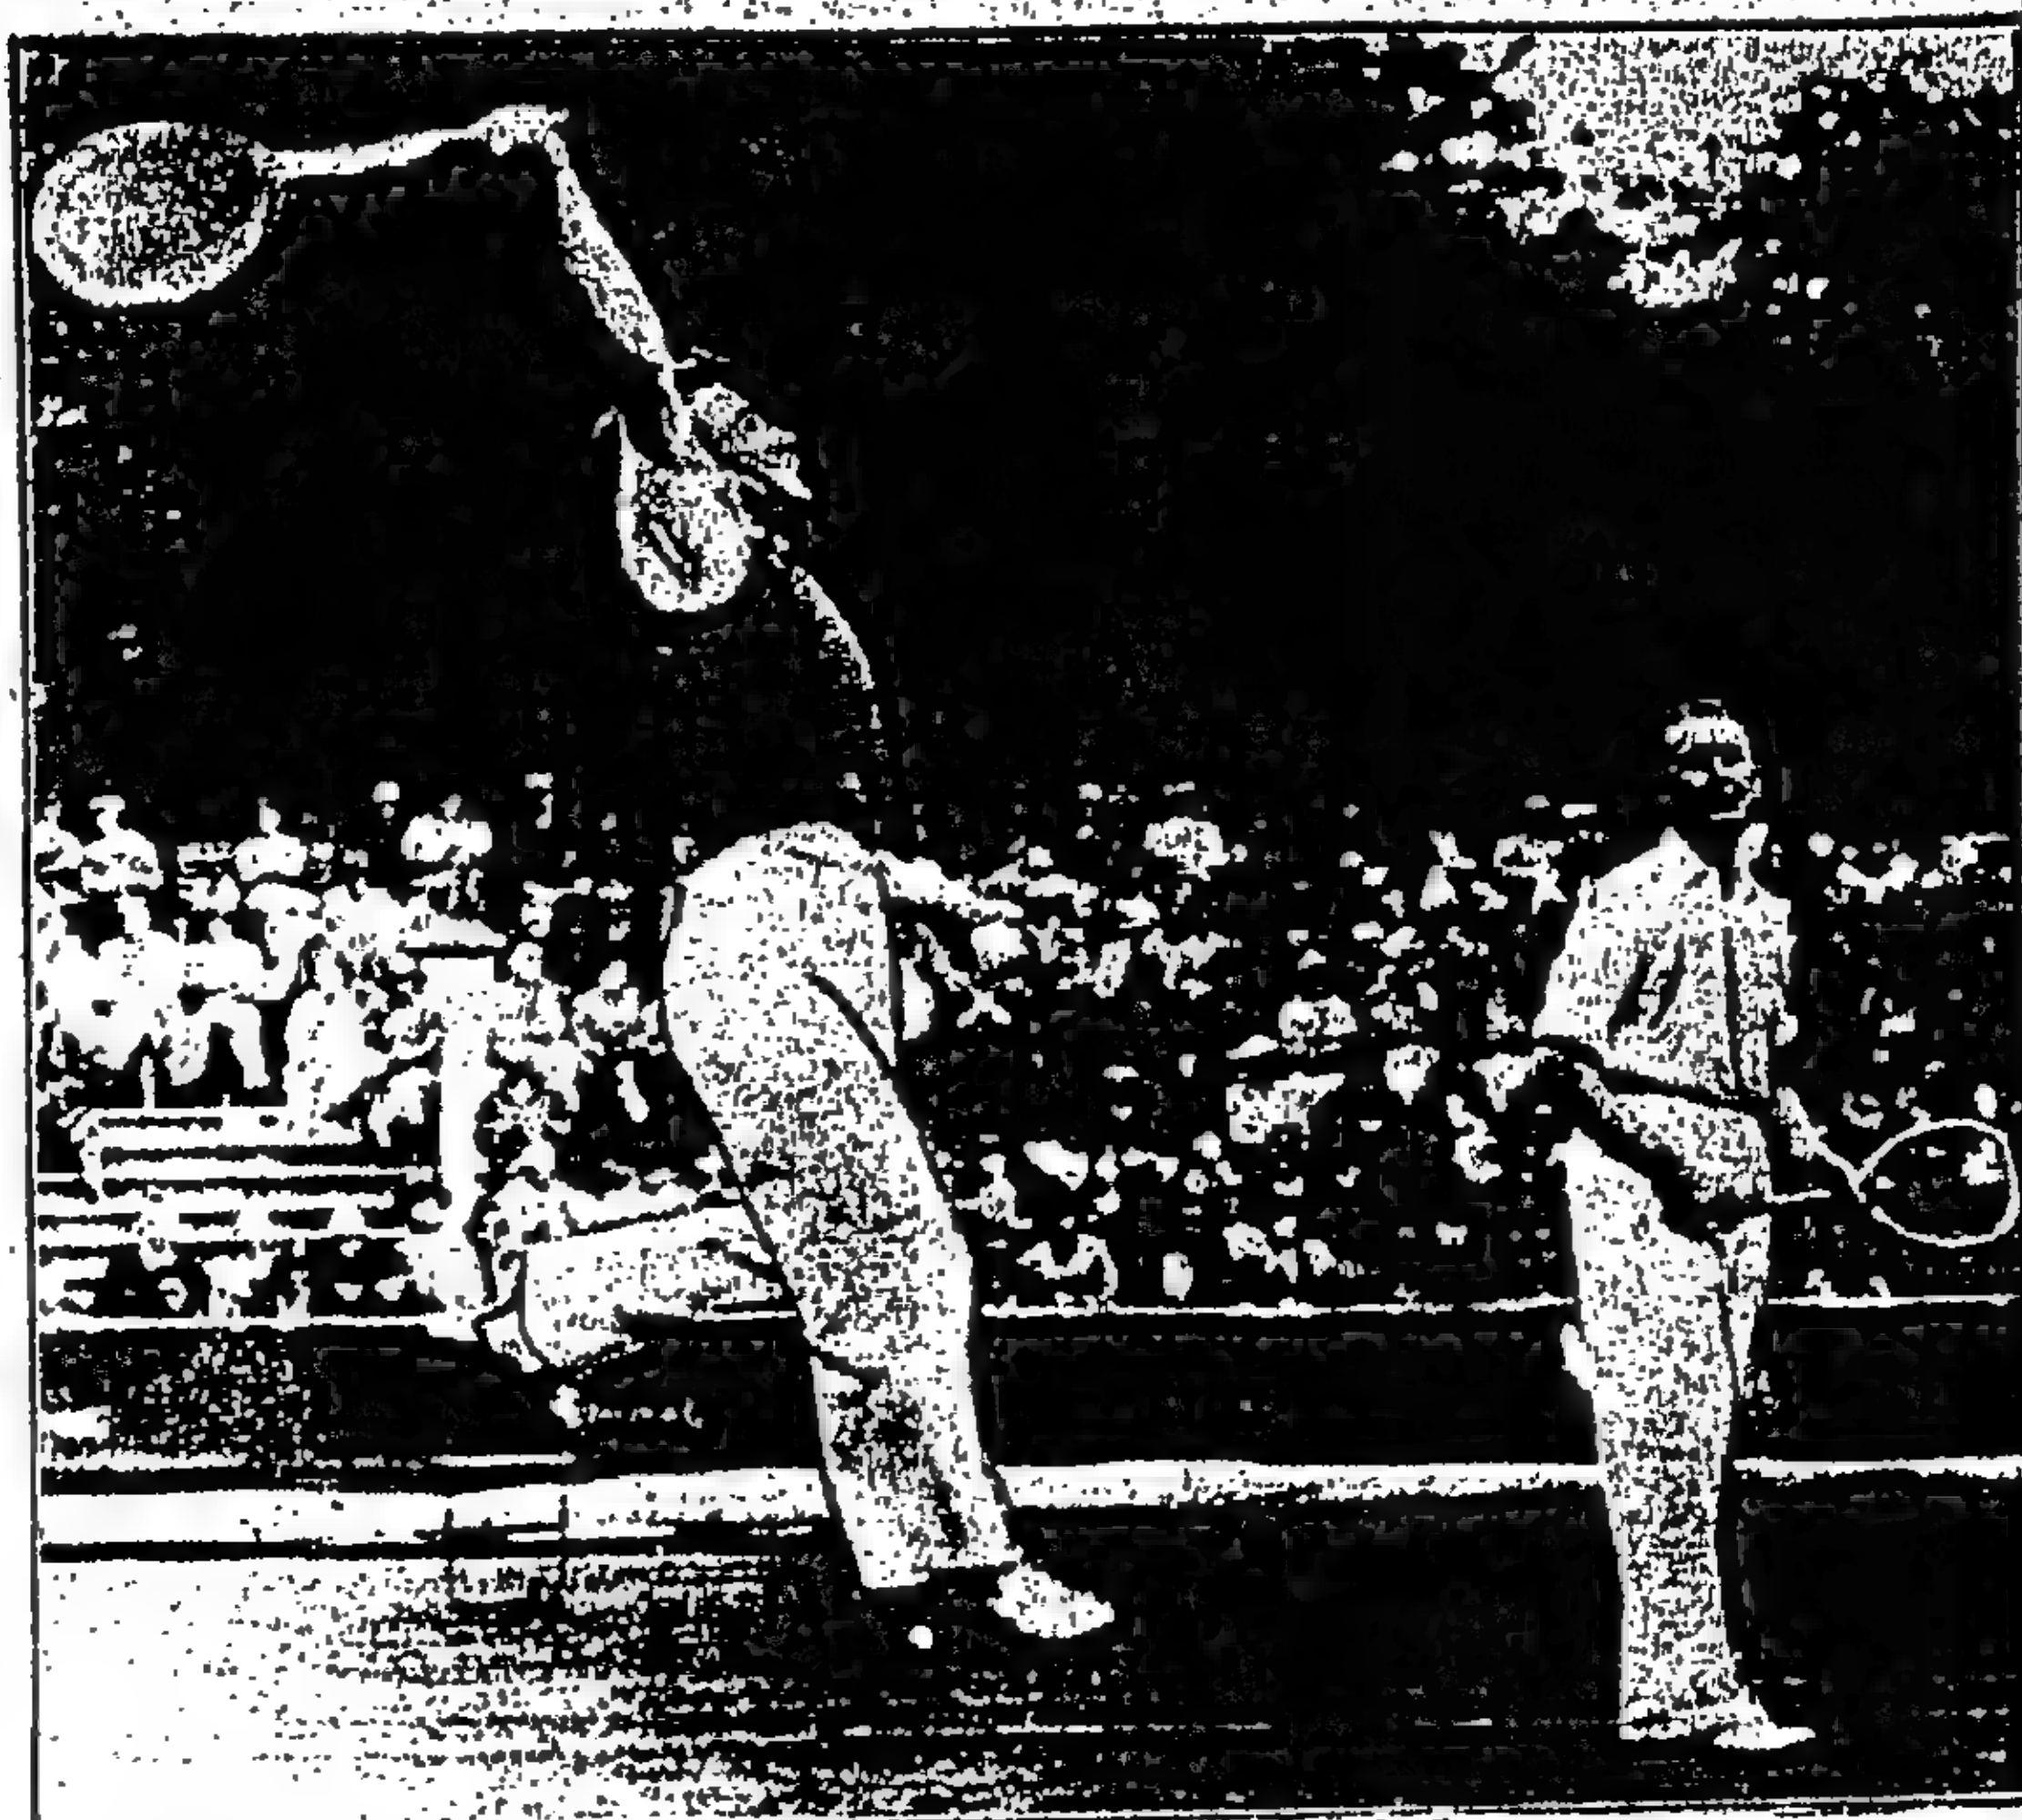

The South Africans have added Somerset to their list of victims, the tourists winning by the narrow margin of 51 runs at Bath.

The visitors compiled 173 runs and then 284 while Somerset made 218 and 183. Bruce Mitchell, with his leg-break bowling, took five wickets for 45 runs.

Glamorgan trounced Hampshire in their match at Cardiff where the Welsh county won by ten wickets after declaring their first innings closed at 400 for eight wickets. Of this total Duckfield made 111 and Smart 109. Hampshire lost their last wicket for 226 and, in the follow-on, were dismissed for 248. Without loss Glamorgan scored 18 runs.

Yorkshire are now within striking distance of Derbyshire in the Championship race and another slip on the part of the leaders will enable the Northerners to assume the leadership.

When playing at Colchester against Essex, Yorkshire won by 226 runs, scoring 253 and then 228 for five declared, after Essex had made 150 runs in their first innings, during which Bowes took seven for 58. In their second attempt Essex collected 105 runs, Verity taking five for 17.—Reuter.

Jack Crawford (right), of Australia, one of the world's best tennis players, and his partner, Adrian Quist, are pictured in action on the courts. They have qualified for the Men's Doubles final at Wimbledon where they beat Gene Mike and Donald Budge, the young American pair. They defeated the New Zealand team of A. C. Stedman and C. E. Malfrey in their first round matches in the 1935 Davis Cup tourney. They then proceeded to France, where they gave an excellent account of themselves in the French hard court contests, winning the doubles title.

MATCH IN PAIRS TOURNEY

BOWLS CONTEST YESTERDAY

PLAYERS NOW IN SEMI-FINAL

(By "Sagax")

S. Eccleshall, of the Civil Service C.C., and J. Shepherd, of the Police Recreation Club, have become the first to qualify for the semi-finals of the local lawn bowls championship. Yesterday they defeated T. Armstrong and C. Strange, of the Civil Service C.C., on the Craigengower C.C. green by 23 shots to 19 in the Pairs Competition.

The rain of the past week and occasional drizzles during the game made good bowls difficult but the standard produced by the players was creditable and not unworthy of a quarter-final match played under adverse conditions and on a tricky green which had a big draw on one hand and practically no draw at all on the other.

Shepherd was the pick of the four and he played consistently well throughout. At times he was deadly with his drawing while at the beginning he was sending down some useful heavy woods, rendered necessary when Eccleshall failed to hold his own against Armstrong who had the better of the first part of the game in the leading positions.

Strange was not altogether in his best form but he brought off some good work. He was, however, always overshadowed by a more consistent opponent in Shepherd. He saved valuable shots on many heads and during one period of the game he was bowling with uncanny accuracy. That was when, on three successive heads, he and Armstrong found their best form and scored eleven shots.

However, Eccleshall and Shepherd recovered from this lapse and won on the last three heads. The scoring at the beginning was close, with three all being called on the fifth head. Then Eccleshall and Shepherd took the lead at 5-3 but unanny bowling by their opponents made the score 14-5 at the end of the tenth head. After scoring one, the Civil Service-Police pair replied with a five and they then took command of the game until, at the conclusion of the sixteenth head, they led by 18-17, after having scored a four.

A five on the 19th head made the score 24-13 in favour of Eccleshall and Shepherd, who registered a four on the next head and eventually ran out winners by 28-19.

ARRANGEMENTS FOR THE BOWLS INTERPORT

MEETING BEING HELD ON FRIDAY TO DISCUSS MATTERS

SHANGHAI DUE TO COME EARLY IN OCTOBER NEXT

(By "Sagax")

If present arrangements are acceptable to both sides, and there is no reason why they should not be, the Shanghai Lawn Bowls Interport team will arrive in Hongkong during the first week of October and leave after a fortnight's stay.

In their invitation to the Northerners the Hongkong Lawn Bowls Association left the question of the date to Shanghai and in their reply the Hon. Secretary of the Shanghai Lawn Bowls Association intimated that as they had formerly visited the Colony towards the end of September or early October they would adhere to the same dates but that the exact day of their arrival will be dependent on the shipping sailing from the North.

Hongkong have accepted the dates but will most probably show a preference for early October rather than late September, as the local season threatens to drag out on account of the wet weather and it would be more convenient if Shanghai were to arrive as near the end of the season as possible.

A meeting of the Executive Council of the Hongkong Lawn Bowls Association is to be held on Friday next when the various matters in connection with the Interport will be discussed. The work of conducting the Interport matches will be allocated and various sub-committees appointed.

Nothing will be decided upon until brought up for discussion at the meeting on Friday but there is every probability that the method of selecting Hongkong's teams will be changed in that a sub-committee will be invested with full powers to select the team, which has, of recent years, been left partially to Club Committees, who have been asked to submit a certain and limited number of names to the Association for final selection.

The biggest sensation of the season was the defeat of the Kowloon Bowling Green Club by the Indian R. C. at the beginning of the season. Club de Recreio against the Police R. C. on Saturday last runs the former incident a close second.

The defeat of the Portuguese side makes the fight more interesting again as both they and the Craigengower C. C. have now met one match while the Kowloon Bowling Green have thrice been beaten. Two other teams, the Police R. C. and the Craigengower's "B" team, have also been beaten three times but neither of these two combinations can be expected to finish anywhere near the top. They have some very fine bowlers but are not playing championship bowls although either is capable of springing a surprise as was proved on Saturday, when the Craigengower team, raised a convincing victory in addition to the surprise created by the Police R. C. The heavy rain during the morning

In the National League the Giants were beaten by Brooklyn Dodgers while the Pirates won against the Cubs.

Japanese Tennis Stars

NIPPON PLAYERS FOR SHANGHAI

Shanghai, July 1. Hayashi, Imperial University of Tokyo star who beat Fujikura, Davis Cup player, Hira, Kelo University flash and No. 3 in all-Japan championship ranking, and Kurumita and Fujii, Kwansai University doubles team which is third best in Japan, will arrive here on July 6 for a series of matches.

The visiting quartette will first face the Shanghai Japanese Tennis Club, and will then battle with local champions, "Stick" Duff, "Molly" Benavitch, Khoo Hoo-hye and Gordon Lum, in singles and doubles on July 21 and 22 on the Shanghai Lawn Tennis Association court at the Cercle Sportif Francaise when the mixed doubles championship will also be decided.

Plans have been launched by the S.L.T.A. to invite E. D. Andrews, captain and manager and No. 1 ranking player of New Zealand's Davis Cup, and his mate, A. C. Stedman for a series of matches here next year. Little is known about Stedman, but Andrews, who has played here before on several occasions, is a very able player who

RYDER CUP GOLF IN SPRING

SUGGESTION MADE BY SARAZEN

MISTAKE TO HOLD TIE IN OCTOBER

London, June 4. Should the Ryder Cup matches be played in May?

Gene Sarazen suggests that they should and considers that it is a great mistake to hold them in October. "It is too late," he says. "There is too much else going on in sport at that time. The baseball world series and American football will be holding the spotlight," says a Reuter message from New York.

"My idea would be to hold the Ryder Cup matches first, then the American Open and after that the British Open."

Refusing to forecast the American team, Sarazen said that there were many men who at present looked like certainties, but who, by the time the matches came round, might be out of the picture. "If America beats England in the Ryder Cup it will not be a very great victory, because America has always won on her own soil, and England has always won in England," he added.

"But if England should win on American soil, that would be a great victory. I don't consider any team, in any sport, to be supreme until it can win in its opponent's own country."

Since the Ryder Cup contest was instituted in 1927, Great Britain and the U.S.A. have each won twice—always on their home courses. Great Britain won at Moorstown, Leeds, in 1929; at Southport, in 1933, while America was successful at Worcester, Mass., in 1927, and at Scioto, Columbus, Ohio, in 1931.

JAPANESE GOLFERS BEATEN Lose Contests In U.S. To American Stars

Chicago, June 10. The touring professional golfers from Japan received their most decisive defeat of the tour at the hands of a team of Chicago professionals at the Westward Ho Golf Club.

The home team won by eight points to one. The Nassau system of scoring was used, and the Chicagoans yielded only half-a-point each in two matches.

Denny Shute and "Lickthorse" Harry Cooper, paired and turned in a best-ball score of 34-31—65, the best of the day, defeating Bob Asami and Teichro Toda, 2½ to ½. The Japanese pair had 34-36—70.

Horton Smith and Ky Laffoon beat Tommy Miyamoto and Jack Yasuda, 3-0, scoring 35-31—66 to 39-37—75.

Sesai Chin and Kanekichi gave Tommy Armour and Frank Walsh a tussle all the way but lost ¾ to 1¼. The American pair had 33-34—67, to the Japanese score of 33-35—68.

However, the Japanese are still ahead on the tour, having won seven matches, lost five and tied one.

LAST HOCKEY INTERPORT

OFFICIAL ADMITS BLUNDER

SELECTED MEN DROPPED

The dropping of two players, N. A. E. Mackay and G. Sommer, after they had been told they were selected for the Hongkong Interport hockey team against Macao in February last, was discussed at a meeting of the Council of the Hongkong Hockey Association held in St. Andrew's Church Hall last evening.

Mr. A. A. Dand, Vice-President of the Association, was in the chair.

Mr. A. E. P. Guest, I think the Selection Committee blundered by asking two players to play, and, as a matter of fact, told them they were playing, and later told them that others would fill their places.

The Chairman: As a member of that committee I admit we did make a blunder.

Mr. Guest: I would like it placed on record that in future the Selection Committee should select about 15 players and not nominate the team until the end.

The Chairman: It is better to choose your team and let them play together before the big match. In this instance, it was purely in the interests of the Colony side that the changes were made. It was rather regrettable, admittedly.

Mr. Guest: If the team is nominated the players play.

Mr. Palmer said that he personally thought both players felt badly over the incident. Lieut. Ravenhill thought the newspapers had made more of it than the incident warranted.

The Secretary mentioned it was in the power of the Committee to make changes where they saw fit.

Mr. Guest then proposed that in future sub-committee selecting a representative side will select 15 players and these will include reserves. Mr. Palmer seconded and the motion was carried by a 5-2 margin.

THE GERMAN VISIT
The Chairman mentioned that in connection with the visit of the Shanghai German Hockey Club a

BRITISH GAMES AT WHITE CITY LAST MONTH

ATHLETICS HELD IN LONDON

FIRST-CLASS SPORT

(By Guy M. Butler)

The British Games again produced a first-class afternoon's entertainment at the White City, for it is certainly no exaggeration to say that the majority of the runners one most wanted to see were competing in one event or another during the afternoon.

The Inter-Club contest was especially exciting, for the result depended on the last event, the 3-mile medley relay. Had the Swedish quarter-miler, S. Stromberg, succeeded in his very gallant effort to gain the necessary place over the last stage, his club would have won, instead of being one and a half points behind the Achilles.

The pace he set himself over the first furlong of the quarter was too hot, and he died away into fifth position instead of the third, which he so much coveted.

In the 100 yards of this match A. W. Sweeney (Milos) won in a manner emphasising his class. The way he forged ahead of K. S. Duncan (Achilles) in the last forty yards to win by nearly two yards in 9.9.10 seconds was indeed good to behold. I think, perhaps, this was the best performance of the afternoon, though J. V. Powell's (L.A.C.) half-mile win in 1 min. 56 sec. and F. A. R. Hunter's (L.A.C.) quarter in 49.3.5 sec. are not far behind. Powell has at last learnt to clip that over-long stride of his, and altogether seemed to possess more poise. He went out by himself in the second lap, having run his first in 57½ sec., and though lying in the last forty yards, his first serious race of the season must be very satisfactory for him; M. J. K. Sullivan (Achilles) chased him most gamely over the last furlong, was palpably gaining at the finish, and himself beat 1 min. 57 sec. Hunter, though not a beautiful mover, is certainly a very strong and determined runner.

WAITING TACTICS
J. C. Stothard, as I expected, ran a tactical waiting race in the mile. He forced the Swede, L. Nilsson, to make the pace for him, and did not bother to stop on the acceleration until 250 yards from home. When he did so there was only one man in the picture: 4 min. 30.1.5 sec. is a mere training race for him, but without doubt, he was wise to reserve his energies.

In the 120 yards hurdles match, D. O. Finlay (Milos), when looking all over a winner, for some reason stopped almost dead at the three-quarter distance, and actually finished fifth, the Swedish chamion, H. Lidman, winning in 15.1.5 sec. Whether there was a hole in the track I do not know, but in hurdle events accidents will happen even in the best regulated circles; later Finlay turned out and won the scratch event in 15.4.5 sec., probably practically a second slower than he would have done in the match.

In the medley relay, 440 x 220 x 220 x 440 yards, the Milosians finished first, with C. H. Stoney showing better form over the last stage than he had in the scratch race, and F. S. Parks, the Cambridge runner, clung on to him grimly to give the Achilles the necessary points to win the match.

The scratch races were all productive of really strong fields, extremely keen competition, and times were up to the standard of a Southern championship. The 100 yards was especially thrilling, E. L. Page, G. T. Saunders, C. A. Ward, and M. A. Hintze reaching the tape practically together, in that order, in 10.1.10 sec.

I like the look of F. S. Whittingham, the young Blackheath quarter-miler, who won that event from the outside lane in 49.3.5 sec. He has a stride and roll of the shoulder very like that of G. L. Shamp-

lin. ATTRACTIVE QUARTER-MILER
On the three miles my feelings are a mixture of disappointment and relief. R. H. Thomas won the race all right in 14 min. 33 sec., and from a definitely good field. My disappointment lay in the fact that we still do not know in the least whether he is the real class long-distance runner his practice spins have led us to expect. On the other hand, I am very glad that he did not go out by himself at this time of the season in an attempt to make records. Judging by the way he ran his last furlong, leaving J. A. Burns tolling in his wake, there is no doubt that he had a great deal in hand.

The other three-mile race, a team match between the Belgrave and Birchfield Harriers, definitely caught on with the crowd. The individual honours went to Belgrave, J. Ginty finishing first in 44 min. 43 sec., but Birchfield, thanks to their superior packing in the rear of the procession, were successful as a team by 37 points to 41.

Mention must be made of the half-mile, won by A. J. Collyer in 1 min. 57.4.5 sec., running his race from pillar to post without seemingly undue exertion.

FOOT-FAULT IN LAWN TENNIS DISCUSSED

AN AMERICAN ON THE NEW RULE

APPLICATION IN U.S.

Mr. Samuel Hardy, a well-known figure in American lawn tennis circles, discusses the present foot-fault rule and its application in American tennis today in Wright and Ditson's official adopted Lawn Tennis Guide of which he is the editor. He mentions "the extraordinary attitude" on the part of players, officials and public towards a rule which has "almost become a dead letter." He recalls that the rule was originally designed as a check against the server who ran to the net immediately after serving, stepping well into the court and thus gaining what was considered to be an unfair advantage.

"But the rule in its practical application has become so unpopular throughout the tennis playing world that an International Committee has been appointed to seek a solution of the problem. It is no exaggeration to say that the foot-fault rule has become almost a dead letter. Ninety per cent. of the time it is entirely ignored, even in national championships, and when it is enforced it always gives rise to arguments and recriminations. It has become impossible longer to ignore such universal opposition to this unpopular rule. The public is always the final judge of the worth of any law, and in the case of the foot-fault rule there is no doubt that it is thumbs down with both public and players.

"The players say that they might not object to the enforcement of the rule if judges were provided from the beginning of a tournament, instead of only during the final rounds, so that they might become accustomed to the enforcement of the rule. They always feel that an extra hazard comes from them when in the closing stages of a tournament, they are suddenly confronted by a foot-fault judge who tells them that he means to interpret the rule strictly. Prior to a match players have been known to inquire carefully into the intentions of a judge and to ask for a substitute known for his leniency toward offenders. At other times they have asked for the removal of a judge during the progress of a match because of his failure to call obvious foot-faults by an opponent. Only last year, in one of our national championships, a noted foreign player, convinced that his opponent was violating the foot-fault rule, appealed to the umpire four times for a new judge, and when his requests were steadily refused he felt that he had been dealt with unfairly. It is obvious that a rule such as this one, which through its interpretation may mean the winning or losing of a match, should either be rigidly enforced throughout the tournament or else abolished.

"It is becoming increasingly difficult to secure the services of a foot-fault judge for an important match. If he enforces the rule strictly he is well aware that he may ruin the match, and he also runs the risk of being booed by the gallery if his decisions, right or wrong, concern some popular player. Somehow the spectators feel that the judge is imposing a purely technical penalty which is unnecessary, and their sympathies invariably lie with the offender."

Mr. Hardy stresses the necessity of redrafting the rule and finding a speedy solution to a "vexed question." The problem, he says, is "an exceedingly difficult one, the chief obstacle being the lack of a new rule that will satisfy everyone. Various suggestions have been made by a number of countries, and have been discussed by the delegates at the annual Federation meetings, but up to this time no proposal for betterment has been acceptable. Until a workable rule is found, we must continue to muddle along with the present one. It will be far better to disregard the rule this season than to enforce it."

The original proposal of the chairman for the age of 19 was also lost, and the Article on that point left as before. The amendment for the abolition of the balloting committee was, however, carried unanimously. This was attained by the substitution of the word "general" for the word "balloting" in Article 32 of the Association.

The amended Article was therefore as follows:

"For all other persons seeking membership of the Club admission shall be by ballot and the election shall be in the hands of the general Committee. Candidates applying for admission shall be charged a fee equivalent to two months' subscription for the period pending their ballot. Candidates must be proposed by one Member and seconded by another, and application for admission must be made in writing signed by the candidate and his proposer and seconded and addressed to the Honorary Secretary."

Two other articles regarding the balloting committee were also deleted.

MEMBERSHIP FOR LADIES
The proposals by the chairman for the introduction of a special class of lady subscribers and the abolition of the balloting committee were the two main topics discussed at the extraordinary meeting of the Kowloon Cricket Club held yesterday afternoon in the hall of the Club with the President, Mr. Justice R. E. Lind-sell in the chair.

The meeting decided in favour of both alterations to the Articles of the Association, and several other Articles were also considered and amended.

The chairman, at the outset, pointed out that for some time past, the general committee had been considering various amendments to the Club's Articles, and the results of their labours were contained in the notice convening the meeting. There were not many drastic alterations in the proposed amendments, but the two chief ones, were, firstly, the formation of a special class of lady subscribers, and secondly the abolition of the balloting committee.

Speaking on the proposed amendments to regard the abolition of the balloting committee, he said that as it had been found very difficult to obtain a quorum at balloting meetings, and the election of candidates seeking admission was consequently delayed, the general committee had therefore, come to the conclusion that it was well to abolish the balloting committee, together, and leave the ballot in the hands of the general

SERIAL STORY—

Summer Sweethearts

By Mabel McElliot © 1935, NEA Service, Inc.

BEGIN HERE TO-DAY

KATHARINE STRYKHURST, daughter of wealthy VICTOR STRYKHURST, is deeply attracted by MICHAEL HEATHERS, who runs a riding school. Katharine is discontented and restless under her stepmother's rule. Thrown from a horse, she is taken to the home of VIOLET MERSEY, who once was in love with Katharine's father. Violet is drawn to the girl and their become friends.

DR. JOHN KAYE, just back from Europe, visits the Strykhursts. ZOE PARKER, Katharine's closest friend, is in love with GIBBS PARKIN, and persists in seeing him in spite of her parents' objections. Katharine asks Dr. Kaye to help her keep Zoe from eloping with Gibbs.

CHAPTER XIV

Katharine said miserably, "I don't know what to do."

The enormity of her offence in helping Zoe make a rendezvous now struck her with full force. But she couldn't tattle, even if she had unwittingly overheard Zoe's plot to elope with Gibbs Larkin.

"There's just nothing we can do, I suppose," she said to Dr. John Kaye. "But I feel—oh, terrible about it all!"

"Bad business," he commented quietly.

"You think so, too, Johnny?"

He shrugged his shoulders. "I've known Larkin quite a while."

"He's such a rotter," Katharine burst out angrily. "And Zoe's honestly the sweetest thing."

"But she's grown up," the man reminded her. "I really don't see how you can interfere. You didn't cavewoman intentionally."

"Oh, of course not," Katharine flamed in some indignation.

"What we might do," pursued John Kaye quietly, "is to find them and stick to them like limpets all evening—not let them out of our sight. And perhaps baulk it this time anyhow."

"John, you're marvellous."

"But would it do any good?" demanded the man. "Wouldn't she dash off at the very first chance and marry him?"

Katharine shook her head despairingly. "I suppose so."

"Well, to ease your conscience, I'll see what I can do to help you to-night, at least," said Dr. Kaye gently.

"John, you're an angel! I'll dash in and dress now and see if I can catch Zoe. Maybe I can talk some sense into her."

"Don't do that," the man warned. "That would be fatal."

Katharine blew him a kiss as she ran toward the house. How understanding he was! There was something, she told herself, awfully sweet about John. She was glad he knew about the other night. She had hated letting him go away, thinking she was conducting a flirtation of which she was ashamed.

The sun was slipping slowly down toward the brazen horizon when she came out again. She was in white, a favourite last year frock of white silk, cleverly and simply cut. Her hair shone like a gilded casque. She was smiling with satisfaction. Zoe, whose voice on the telephone had sounded exceedingly gay, had consented to come over for an aperitif before dinner.

Katharine had rather admired her own nonchalance, asking Zoe. In the face of her own guilty knowledge of Zoe's plans, she had had to steady her voice a trifle and strive for casualness.

"John Kaye's here. Won't you drop in for a minute for some sherry? Even John thinks a debutante may have sherry and live."

"Oh, darling, I'd love to," Zoe's voice, utterly care-free, had trilled back.

"And how about staying on for dinner?" Katharine had pursued.

"We could pick up someone at the Club and go somewhere to dance."

Zoe sounded regretful. "Darling, I can't. Have a date."

"Well then, come over early anyhow."

"I'll be there before 7," Zoe promised.

It was 6.30. Katharine felt the tingling of nervousness in her finger ends. As soon as darkness fell Zoe would rush off to keep that date.

Of course Zoe didn't know what she had ever made in all her life.

Of course Zoe didn't know what she would do if anyone told her. For all her appearance and pretence of sophistication, Zoe was pretty much of a child.

There was that night club girl he'd been mixed up with in New York last year, for instance. There had been the most unsavoury stories.

Some people actually said the girl had supported him. The girl lived on the fringe of the half-world people who made their living by their wits and who were, sometimes, struck at in the dark—"rubbed out," as the gangsters said.

No, Gibbs was definitely soiled. Zoe was not his kind.

Katharine strolled up and down, sniffing the garden's scents, while John would come down so that she could talk to him before Zoe arrived.

Bertine swept out, magnificent with her clipped silver hair and printed frock, and proved to be in better humour than she had been for days. Katharine was abstracted and polite to her. To-night she had really no time to think of her stepmother's vagaries.

When Bertine went down to look at the foxgloves, her especial pride, John Kaye appeared on the veranda. He looked cool and meticulously groomed in his dinner clothes.

"She's coming over directly," Katharine whispered, with the air of a conspirator.

"Good."

"What shall we do?" She looked furtively over her shoulder, to see if Bertine were returning. Bertine represented any conversation which did not include her.

John smiled. There was a flash of yellow at the garden gate, and the sound of Zoe's light laughter.

"Leave it," said John Kaye, "to me."

Ellen came out with the decanter and a tray of glasses. The little group in the deep wicker chairs was very gay. Bertine joined them and presently Victor Strykhurst, very imposing in blue coat and white flannels, came out.

"You're sure you can't stay for dinner, Zoe?" Too bad," purred Bertine hospitably. "Ellen can easily lay another place."

Zoe dimpled. "No, I can't."

"Your mother and father are at the Willises to-night, aren't they?"

"I think that's what Mummy said. Bridge afterward. How could anyone," cried Zoe, "consider bridge on such a night as this! It seemed so much a night as this, it seemed so gay, there are older, sayer, more romantic plans afoot. Or such a love."

Katharine glanced quickly at her, glanced away. It was shocking to see anyone so gay and charming resting lightly on the brink of danger; not to be able to stretch out one's hand to help her.

Katharine looked at Dr. Kaye despairingly. Was he going to fail her? He seemed so deadly calm.

"Is dinner imminent, Bertine?" he asked lightly.

"Not terribly. Seven-thirty. Why?"

"I had a fancy to take a little run in the car. Will you drive me, Katharine? We'll take Zoe along."

Zoe glanced consciously at the tiny diamond-studded wrist watch she wore. "I have to be back by 8."

"Good. We'll just have time, then."

Katharine, her head whirling, brought the car around. John Kaye helped Zoe in, climbed in after her.

"Where to?" Katharine asked.

"She had to steady her knees, they were trembling so. What was his plan?"

"Would you mind running past that new night club that's been imported from the city?" Dr. Kaye asked smoothly.

"Oh, I've heard it's a slick place," Zoe cried. "It just opened last month. No one has taken me there."

"I have a card for it," Dr. Kaye said lightly. "One of my patients thrust it on me. Want to go in?"

Zoe looked doubtful. "Would it take very long? I really have to be back."

"Don't worry," the man soothed. "I only want to see what the inside of the place looks like. This fellow who gave me the card roused my curiosity."

Katharine gave him a sideways glance. His face was impassive. There was no telling what went on behind that polite mask.

She turned in at the imposing pillars marking the entrance to the Dusky Sky Club. A man in uniform ran out and Dr. Kaye produced a card which evidently satisfied him as to their credentials.

"Ooh, what a slick pool!" Zoe cried. The long rectangle of aquamarine tile was lined with little tables, with gay lanterns and striped awnings.

"It's like a musical comedy set," Katharine said.

There was an exotic flowering of characters in this musical comedy set: woman glittering with jewels; hard, bright eyes, set in enameled faces. Men with bows, with perfectly manicured, cruel hands; playboys who lisped elegantly.

"Something decadent about it," whispered Katharine to her escort. Zoe, powdering her nose, did not see the sudden, significant glance he shot at her as two people sauntered toward them.

The man was Gibbs Larkin. He was talking absently to the stunning woman at his side. He had not seen Zoe.

CROWN SOLICITOR ORDINANCE

RESTRICTIONS TO BE REMOVED

The Gazette contains the draft of an Ordinance to amend the Crown Solicitors Ordinance, 1912, and to repeal the Crown Solicitors Amendment Ordinance, 1924.

It is explained that Section 2 of the principal Ordinance, authorised the appointment, as Crown Solicitor of any person possessing the qualifications which would entitle the Court to approve, and enrol him as a barrister or as a solicitor under section 21 of the Legal Practitioners Ordinance, No. 1 of 1871, and as Assistant Crown-Solicitor of any person who had successfully passed all the examinations required of a student before admission as a barrister or advocate in Great Britain or Ireland or as an attorney, solicitor, writer or law agent in one of the Courts at London, Dublin or Edinburgh or as a proctor in any ecclesiastical Court in England.

Section 2 of the new Ordinance substitutes a new section 2 (1) which will allow the appointment, as Crown Solicitor or Assistant Crown Solicitor of any barrister, advocate, solicitor, law agent or proctor or any member of the Colonial Legal Service, and as an Assistant Crown Solicitor of any person who has successfully passed the examinations required before admission of a barrister, solicitor, law agent, proctor or any member of the Colonial Legal Service. The new expression "law agent" includes Writers to the Signet, Solicitors of the Supreme Courts and Procurators in the Sheriff Court.

This substituted section will not only conform more closely with section 21 of Ordinance No. 1 of 1871, as amended by section 2 of Ordinance No. 13 of 1931, but it will also remove a restriction which might prevent the appointment of any member of the Colonial Legal Service with some other Colonial legal qualification as Crown Solicitor or Assistant Crown Solicitor. In a Circular Despatch dated the 15th July, 1933, the Secretary of State has requested the removal of any such statutory restrictions.

Section 3 and 4 of this Ordinance amend sections 3 (1) (a) and 4 of the principal Ordinance by including the Air Authorities and His Majesty's Trade Commissioner in Hongkong among the authorities for whom the Crown Solicitor and his assistants may act with the consent of the Governor.

U.S. SILVER PUZZLE

POLICY POLITICAL RATHER THAN ECONOMIC

London, July 5. "No doubt President Roosevelt's silver policy will always remain one of the greatest puzzles of American economic history," says the Financial News in the course of leading article exhaustively examining the silver situation.

It is generally known that in 1933-1934 Mr. Roosevelt needed the support of the Silver bloc in order to carry on the New Deal. The silver policy is therefore, political rather than economic.

The paper states that the November elections resulted in an overwhelming victory for Roosevelt, who no longer needed to consider opposition so seriously.

Since November the United States has apparently never again supported silver to any appreciable extent.

It would be no surprise if Washington is beginning to take heed of the unfavorable results of her silver policy, which has antagonized the American banks and export industries, but the Financial News concludes, with the Presidential election approaching and the Silverites more active than ever before, will Roosevelt again risk improving his domestic situation at the expense of the non-American world. Only the future can supply an answer.—Reuter.
